Daly City Protests Parking Surtax

Daly City Thursday formally protested the federal government's new parking surtax in a letter to the Regional Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency in San Francisco.

Other cities are expected to soon follow suit.

City manager David Rowe in a three page condemnation of the California Transportation Control Plan published in the Federal Register Nov. 12, said the law, if enacted, would bankrupt churches in the community and throw the city's budget into the red overnight.

Rowe said Daly City, with its population of some 70,000, is a residential community and has little commercial businesses to support its tax base.

The total EPA surcharges asked for parking spaces levied against the city itself for employes, libraries, community centers and other public facilities could cost $240,000.

Another $70,000 would have to be allocated to those employees riding public transportation.

State law has "frozen" the city's property tax rate. Thus, if such expenditures are made, municipal services will suffer, Rowe said.

Daly City's formal protest asking the EPA to "review, rescind and modify the regulations in such a manner as to not have an adverse social and economic disruption on the Daly City community," is expected to be only the first of a long list of cities filing similar protests on the parking doctrine slated to come into effect for cities over 100,000 population by July 1, 1974, and for Daly City (under 100,000) the following year.

A city-owned community recreation center and park with 100 parking spaces would pay more in parking surcharges than twice the present total operating and maintenance budget for the facility, Rowe said.

The federal regulation makes no exceptions for parking spaces maintained by a city for police, fire, ambulance or any other operating equipment of a municipality, the city manager pointed out.

Last week, Rowe told the city council the surtax could cost the city and private businesses some $3.5 million in parking surtaxes.

The sprawling Serramonte shopping center would pay about $2.3 million by 1976 under the federal regulation designed to discourage use of the automobile and encourage use of mass transit.

It was quickly pointed out by several businessmen in the city that this surtax cost would have to be passed on to the consumer with what they predicted would have "disasterous effects."

The regulation also states that more than half the surtax monies collected must be used to further the goals of mass transit — but it failed to say where the money would be allocated. Trash money collected in Daly City could well be spent for mass transit in Southern California under a "priority system."

"We don't even know where our money would be spent," Rowe said.

Rowe explained that the total surcharge and employee parking fees which might be levied against Daly City "equals an amount more than half of the city's total government budget for all purposes."

There has been some confusion over certain aspects of the regulation.

For instance, some persons have interpreted the regulation as breaking the state down into "five air regions."

San Francisco is one of the air regions.

If this is the basis for effecting the regulation then all of the Peninsula — from San Francisco to San Jose — could be under the parking surtax starting in July 1974.

However, most understand the regulation to be broken down as such: cities of more than 100,000 population get the new surtax starting in July 1974; cities of more than 50,000 come under the tax starting July 1, 1975; and those remaining by July 1, 1976.

During this three-phase period, all cities affected would have "in date" increases and would, consequently, be expected to abandon some parking spaces.

Cutting down the parking spaces in a suburban community will spell financial disaster, Rowe said.

"The regulatory fees on parking imposed by the plan in no way differentiates the . . . amount of pollution discharged by the user of the parking space. The user of a library or church . . . likely did not travel more than . . . one and one-half miles as opposed to the user of the parking space at the site of the employer in a major urban core city who likely traveled more than 30 miles," Rowe said.

Parking at mass transit stations, such as the Bay Area Rapid Transit station on John Daly Avenue in Daly City, are exempt from the surtax.

But a community church with only 30 parking spaces, as an example, could be bankrupted within one year as a result of this tax, Rowe ventured.

In pointing up what he feels are inequities in the regulation, Rowe said while the use of motorcycles during certain times and months is banned, there are no provisions for exempting the use of motorcycles by police.

BART Mulls Parking Woes

The Administration Committee of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District took up the perplexing question of what to do about the parking problem at its westbay stations yesterday.

In Daly City, BART riders have inundated the area around the station on John Daly Ave. with cars, blocking private driveways, fire hydrants and even parking on green belts not yet planted with trees and flowers.

Yesterday, BART police stepped into the act and began issuing tickets.

Some 52 tickets for illegal parking — at $5 per ticket — were issued by BART police.

This volume was bolstered by a similar amount of citations written by Daly City traffic police for violations of parking ordinances outside the station grounds.

Meanwhile, the BART staff presented recommendations yesterday to the committee meeting in Oakland to solve, at least temporarily, the parking mess that has afflicted Daly City since BART opened Nov. 5.

One of the long range suggestions included expediting construction of a multi-storied garage on the west side of the terminal building capable of handling some 900 cars.

The $3 million facility is being paid for by Daly City ($300,000 from gas tax monies) and the federal government under provisions of the Urban Mass Transit Act.

As an immediate stop-gap measure until the garage is completed, hopefully within two years, BART officials further suggested that three areas next to the BART station be turned into parking lots.

A "maintenance yard" north of the station probably will be turned into a lot with a capacity of 100 cars.

Officials are now negotiating with the Payless store two blocks away for leasing of the store's rooftop parking lot.

The lot is capable of parking some 350 cars and it was understood the leasee would pay for repaving the lot.

Another 2½-acre parcel, about a block from the station, is under consideration for use as a parking lot.

A Daly City spokesman said "no progress has been made as yet on securing this parcel."

The latter property could possibly hold another 300-400 cars.

It was believed these lots would relieve some of the pressure now being experienced in the city.

However, one resident of the area who has been plagued with motorists blocking his driveway while they ride BART to work, said he did not think the answer to the problem was in providing more parking.

The more parking provided will only add to the volume of those who ride BART, but will do little to solve the situation, the unidentified property owner said.

"What is the answer?" Councilman Victor Kyriakis asked.

It was suggested that perhaps a two-hour limit be placed on all cars parking in the residential area, except for homeowners.

City Manager David Rowe and City Atty. Albert Polonsky said this could not legally be done.

Councilman Paul Hupf agreed such a measure would be against the law.

Holiday Shoplifting Becoming 'Epidemic'

By FRANK LAPIERRE

San Mateo County shoppers will once again be digging deeper in their pockets this Christmas season to pay for shoplifting losses expected to be suffered by retail outlets.

The crime of shoplifting is practically the vogue and continues to reach epidemic proportions every year throughout the country.

Commercial Service Systems Inc., an investigative company specializing in retail security systems to control such losses, recently revealed that their loss-by-shoplifting projections for this season will top $6,272,160 in Southern California alone.

The estimated loss figure for the entire nation staggers the imagination.

CSS surveyed 716 stores in the southern half of the State last year.

Based on what they learned from this survey, the company made their loss projections for this year.

Another internationally-known security agency — Pinkerton's Incorporated — has predicted nationwide losses in excess of $600 million — during this holiday season.

Pinkerton's attributed this loss figure to "impulse displays" set up in store aisles and self-service cases found in almost all of today's department stores.

Many shoplifters repeat their crimes.

Exact figures are not available, but local enforcement agencies and store security personnel know that in many cases shoplifters are let off with only a "slap on the wrist," usually

Thief Explains Why He Stole Funds; 'I Never Made It Big'

A 31-year-old San Francisco man who admitted representing himself from a non-existent firm to acquire property and services from several Bay Area businesses in excess of $100,000 without paying a cent Friday told a probation officer why.

Harry Alexander Krawetz made his confessions to Arnie W. Peters in a report prepared for San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan, who Friday sentenced him to one-year in county jail for grand theft.

Businesses in South San Francisco, Belmont, San Mateo, Burlingame, Daly City and Pacifica were among the victim's of Krawetz "spree," Peters said.

Krawetz told Peters why he committed the crimes for four years:

"I commited these acts because I felt I was a Jewish boy who never made it big, comparing myself to other Jewish men my own age. I was lonely, wanted love, companionship, sex, so I bought gifts on credit and gave them away to girl friends and men. I am very sorry for these acts.

"I know this was wrong, stupid, childish and immature. I was brought up to be a nice Jewish boy, honest, sincere, straight, truthful.

"I know I had no business charging and not paying for the merchandise. This was ridiculous. I didn't have to buy love. I should have worked for it the hard way. I am very sorry for hurting these merchants. I should have known better . . ."

Krawetz was arrested in South San Francisco last July 11, where he was accused of using his technique on six businesses. As part of "plea bargaining," those charges were dropped in exchange for a guilty plea to a grand theft of Wollmer's Music Store in Burlingame.

According to Peters, South San Francisco Police Detective Miffton Singleton was perturbed with the "bargain."

"Detective Singleton revealed his department was most instrumental in apprehending the defendant and putting a stop to his con game, and yet the South San Francisco merchants who were bilked by the defendant get nothing in return."

Judge Ragan did not order Krawetz to make restitution, who said he he had no assets.

According to authorities, Krawetz represented imself as owner of Computer Marketing Consultants, and approached businessmen "purchasing" various items, promising to pay them within 10-days.

He employed an answering service, which eventually received numerous inquiries from businesses all over the Bay Area about purchases Krawetz had made and failed to pay for, Peters said. He added that the defendant "showed a "business" card, pretending to be legitimate.

The California Department of Corporations confirmed there was no such firm, officials reported.

Peters said that Krawetz "seems to have learned the various methods of making credit purchases through his experience as a credit investigator and bill collector. He devised a way of making purchases and living a life of grandeur and luxury at the expense of various merchants."

Krawetz earlier this month was sentenced to one year in the San Francisco County Jail for a similar conviction.

Firemen Kept On Their Toes

North County fire departments were kept on their toes last weekend.

In most cases it was because of the wind and rain.

South San Francisco units, for example, responded to a Mission Road address where they rescued a wheel chair victim from a flooding apartment.

And in Pacifica, an apparently unrelated weather incident was reported. There, according to firemen, a 12 inch water main at 399 Andover burst, shooting water as high as 20 feet into the air.

The water main, firemen said, is served by a nearby 3½ million gallon storage unit. As a result of the break the firemen said there was extensive damage to the Ocean Hill Apartment complex, which had just finished construction.

All North County Fire Departments reported an excessive number of calls during the day Friday. In every city there was reports of "lots of rain," wind and in some instances flooding.

Some Jefferson Students To Relocate

Starting next year, Daly City's intermediate school children will be going to a "new" school.

Actually, through a series of shifting children and classes from one building to another, the Jefferson Elementary School District has come up with a plan to have those intermediate students now attending classes at Fernando Rivera School transfer to Thomas Edison — the "new" junior high school.

Children at Thomas Edison will go to Abraham Lincoln School, which is right next door.

And those children who are presently bused, about half of the enrollment at Abraham Lincoln, to school from west of Skyline Blvd. will instead be routed to Fernando Rivera.

Fernando Rivera will then be a K-6 school, something the site was designed for, according to Board Chairwoman Dorothy Adams.

In this game of musical school chairs, scheduled to get under way in the 1974-75 school year, children now walking to Abraham Lincoln School would go to either Daniel Webster, Christopher Columbus or stay at Lincoln.

The "who-goes-where"

Related Story Page 21

aspects of the shifting are still under study by the district staff, it was understood.

For some years, residents of the Fernando Rivera site, namely in the "Westlake Estates" section of Daly City, have voiced complaints about the location of several portable classrooms added to the main structure of the school.

With the transfer of the intermediate school, and the board's decision not to build the new Savage Intermediate School in the St. Francis Heights district, the portables will be moved to Thomas Edison.

Estimated costs of moving the Fernando Rivera portables ranges from $25,000 to $50,000, the board was told by the district staff Wednesday.

Mrs. Adams said the Thomas Edison site was larger than the Fernando Rivera site and more suitable for location of the porta-76 ble classrooms.

This larger area would provide the intermediate children with a bigger recreational yard and sufficient room to set up the portable classrooms, she said.

Initially, only two three-unit portables will be moved from Fernando Rivera.

Man Killed Fleeing Police

A 23-year-old Daly City man, trapped in a blocked-off circle of homes in Foster City Nov. 27, was shot dead by a Brisbane police officer after he allegedly crashed into a roadblock car and backed into the officer.

The shooting occurred as at least five officers from various cities, all in plain clothes, were shouting "Police!" "You are under arrest!" and other warnings as they ran up, Foster City police said.

The wild scene was the culmination of an intensive, multi-department police investigation of a long series of burglaries in the north county, all linked by a common factor — the victims were mixed-league, husband and wife teams in various bowling alleys.

Police identified the burglar suspect, dead on arrival of an ambulance crew as Charles Wallace Tibbats, Jr., 23, of 265 88th St., Daly City.

Tibbats, who holds a bowling average of 180, was due to bowl in the Don Smith Classic League at Serra Bowl, Colma, at 9 p.m. yesterday, at almost the precise time the shooting occurred. The league is a 875 scratch league of top bowlers.

He was under constant surveillance when various police departments in the north county realized the common factor linking many burglaries was that the victims were bowlers.

Tibbats, police said, was on probation.

At 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, 17 officers — from Daly City, South San Francisco, Brisbane, San Bruno, Millbrae and Pacifica — assembled to set up a surveillance team to follow Tibbats through the night.

It was not the first time. Already they had followed the suspect, police said, and noted an unusual behavior. The suspect would drive to a service station, go to a phone, take out a notebook, check an entry, then make a phone call. But that was all.

Tuesday, the trail led south, as police officers in plainclothes and unmarked cars, spelled each other, on and off, in the pursuit. It led finally to a service station in Foster City.

Again, police said, there was the call. They said the suspect's car drove to Laguna Circle, which turns like a horseshoe and comes back to the point of entry, Point Royal Ave. They said the man went to a house on the circle, after parking a half block away, and slipped into it.

At this point, the first time they had caught the suspect entering a house, the officers decided to make an arrest. They set up a roadblock with their cars, closing the circle, and on foot surrounded the house.

Suddenly, the suspect left the house, raced to his car and started up, as police rushed up, calling upon him to stop. Police said he looped the circle, looking for an exit, then came back to Point Royal.

Then, police said, he crashed into the parked car, backed suddenly away as officers with guns out ran up. The car hit Brisbane Police Sgt. John Jmieka, bruising both knees and knocking him down. As Jmieka fell, his gun discharged, fatally wounding Tabbats in the head.

Police recovered a coin collection, taken from the house on the Circle, from the car, and a pellet gun.

In a search of Tabbats' home at 3 a.m., police said, approximately $5,000 in loot taken from various burglarized homes, and including checks and bonds and other items, were found.

Police said that the initial surveillance began after they noted that descriptions tallied with Tabbats and that a license number noted in one burglary was similar to one of a car he was driving.

Schumacher Files For Daly City Council Seat

William "Bill" Schumacher, Daly City attorney, has declared his candidacy for the Daly City Council in the March, 1974, municipal elections.

Schumacher said, "There are too many problems and important decisions facing the city to allow the incumbent government by appointment to continue."

"Government by appointment" refers to the incumbent council's decision to appoint a virtually unknown political insider to the vacancy created last year, rather than naming the people's choice — Bill Schumacher, Schumacher said.

The council ignored the pleas of thousands of people who signed petitions requesting his appointment, the candidate said.

"Now the people will be able to make their choice known," he added.

With a background of deputy district attorney, college professor at CSM, policeman, juvenile court referee, elementary school board trustee and attorney, Schumacher says he is the most qualified person to sit on the Daly City Council.

"The incumbents have had their chance to deal with the problems facing Daly City, and they botched it," Schumacher said. "Now it is time for a truly qualified person with fresh ideas to clear away the foggy thinking that has enveloped City Hall."

Schumacher charged the incumbent council with being a self-appointed Redevelopment Agency, with rushing "helter-skelter into redevelopment without an adequate study of its effects on the people or on the community."

He said that community involvement was not sought, but generated only through the demands of the citizenry.

"Even so, their efforts were ignored by the incumbents who continued to heed its staff, which is neither responsive nor responsible to the people. In lieu of coming up with a prototype of modern government planning, the council merely succeeded in creating fear and uncertainty among a large segment of our residents. This 18-month ordeal was surely ill conceived and irresponsible," Schumacher said.

The "flip-flop" attitude of the incumbents on San Bruno mountain is another failure cited by Schumacher. The council has changed its position three times and probably has ruined the city's chance of getting the mountain, he said.

"I firmly believe that the mountain should be under the control of Daly City," Schumacher said. "After all, the city will get all the resulting problems of storm drainage, sewers, schools, streets and traffic."

The council candidate also charged the incumbents with creating an "apartment house jungle" by allowing a multitude of low standard buildings.

"This patchwork planning has resulted in instant slums," Schumacher said, Schumacher said, "and it is continuing in all sections of the city today. We've got to stop it now."

The City Council granted an exclusive franchise which allowed the firm to levy the highest charge in San Mateo County, one of the provisions being that the entire city would be serviced within a reasonable period of time, he said.

Schumacher will kick off his campaign with a fund-raising affair at the Temple Beth Israel Judea, Jan. 19. Tickets are available at his Daly City Law Office, 375 S. Mayfair Ave., Daly City, phone 755-9720.

BART Area Land Sold

On Nov. 26, the Daly City City Council took action to scrap redevelopment plans of residential neighborhoods near the BART station and concentrate instead on revitalizing its commercial areas.

Wednesday it was learned an Arizona developer has been granted a 99-year lease-purchase option on some seven acres of undeveloped land at the top of Mission Street.

H. Smith Jr., of Millbrae, and his brother, George Smith, of San Bruno, owners of the Mission Bell Motel on Mission Street in Daly City.

Initial plans call for construction of twin high rise towers, perhaps 18 stories from ground level, with frontage on Mission Street of 50,000 square feet, plus an additional 30,000 square feet of sky-rights on adjacent properties owned by car dealer Harry C. Curusis of Atherton.

The area will be used for a multi-storied garage with rooftop heliport and an upper level controlled access to the rear five and a half acre terrace. This will be done by bridging Brunswick Street to a planned condominium office-apartment complex.

This area is contiguous to the 3,000 acre Crocker Land Company-Foremost McKesson-San Bruno Mountain property now in final planning stages before the San Mateo County Planning Commission.

Smith said the views from the various terraces encompass the East Bay hills, overlook downtown San Francisco buildings and the Lake Merced area, as well as southward down the Peninsula.

The name of the Arizona based developer-investor was not made public by Smith.

Smith said contacts are now underway to attract national and international corporations desirous of owning "prestige headquarters in the San Francisco Bay Area" through his Mission Bell Sales Company.

Hugh Smith, former city councilman, said "In contrast with metro congestion, this prime site has automatic location recognition and identity.

"If the optionee follows through, the project has tremendous potential and positive impact from an ecological and financial standpoint because of the front door public transportation and the walk to work labor force.

"My late father, H. H. Smith, who was mayor of Daly City from 1918 to 1936 and Chairman of the Board of Supervisors from 1936 to 1940, purchased this property approximately 25 years ago when the then-city council majority and county executive rejected it as worthless," Hugh Smith said.

He said "the culmination of this proposal would be a splendid monument to his vision and foresight."

Site plans are now being compiled by consulting engineers Wilsey and Ham of Foster City. It was expected feasibility studies and preliminary plans would be ready within 60 to 90 days, Smith said.

Pacifica Moves on Harbor

The City of Pacifica has taken a $54,000 step toward development of a 1,000-slip small boat harbor.

It has been hoping to develop the harbor — estimated to cost $6 million — at a minimum expense to the city. The $54,000 is the first sizeable sum the City Council has committed itself to spending for a harbor.

The council Nov. 26 voted to apply for a $54,000 planning loan to help finance a $90,000 engineering-economic feasibility study of the harbor. It hopes to get the $54,000 from the California Department of Navigation and Ocean Development in the form of a 10-year loan, repayable at 4½ per cent interest — $6,825 a year.

The council also voted to request a $36,000 grant from the San Mateo County Harbor District, to complete financing of the project.

"It's a calculated gamble," Councilman Stan Farber says, "... but if commercial-recreation is our city's future, then this is a must."

Mayor Aubrey Lumley said it may be possible to save some of the $54,000 if the study begins to show an unfavorable picture. The study will be in two phases, a viability study and a feasibility study. If Phase 1 looks unfavorable, the city can stop it right there, Lumley said.

City Mgr. Dave Thompson, however, warned the council that the city must repay the loan, even if the result is unfavorable. He said that "a positive feasibility study would indicate that the small boat harbor is feasible" and that further loans from state and federal agencies would not require repayment. The project — if approved by the right agencies — would not commit the City of Pacifica to further investment but would stand on its own merits, he said.

When completed, the harbor would be operated by the City of Pacifica. If it is found that the city cannot operate it, then the state would take it over according to Thompson.

The purpose of the feasibility study, according to Thompson, is to induce the Army Corps of Engineers to make a study, leading to a grant by the Corps of Engineers, to pay half the cost of construction of navigation facilities. The project was described as a 15-year program, which the city hopes to shorten by starting its study immediately.

Mayor Lumley reported that he had talked to top Army Engineer Corps officers in his recent trip to Washington. Although he did not receive any commitments, he said prospects for getting Corps help seemed hopeful.

Thompson expects that much of the remaining cost will be paid by a 50-year loan from the State Department of Navigation and Ocean Development.

A few doubts have been expressed in regard to the harbor.

Two persons Nov. 26 expressed reservations as to the site — described emphatically by Mayor Lumley as Rockaway Beach.

Virginia Jaeger proposed reexamining a recent city study in which Rockaway Beach was given preference over Pedro Point, as a harbor site. Rockaway Beach has rough waves, she said.

Kitty Bouly Wilson, who has lived on Pedro Point for 28 years, said the best fishing area is off Pedro Point. She said all that would be required to dig the harbor at Pedro Point would be to remove 160 feet of dike, take up some fill, and dredge a bit.

Mayor Lumley assured her that the Army Corps would check various sites.

Mrs. Jaeger also talked of the energy crisis, which has resulted in fuel denied to pleasure boats.

Councilman Don Halverson, employed by PG&E, replied that the energy crisis is expected to last just three to four years, while the new harbor is a long-term project.

It's a New Ball Game In Economic Warfare

President Nixon's Sunday night talk of a week ago seemed to miss the mark, both as to perception of the magnitude of the energy problem, and as to the means required to meet it. He did, however, enunciate one important need: that the nation develop its own resources and energy-producing capacity so that we would become self-sufficient by 1980.

His target date may be early, but the necessity for independence is plain. Not only can foreign sources of raw materials be shut down, but plants erected with American capital or by American firms in foreign nations can be controlled by others. In fact, the very success of the oil embargo may well encourage similar action by other nations.

It is quite possible that we have seen the opening salvo of a new kind of economic warfare. To the extent that this nation relies upon materials and industrial plants beyound our own borders we give hostage in that coming battle.

In recent years American private business has followed economic advantage into the world marketplace. Pursuing shareholder interests, many American firms have become increasingly international in nature. In seeking the best ways to produce and invest, management has relied on foreign raw materials and expanded plant and equipment on strange shores.

This has resulted in shortages in America's capacity to meet its own requirements. Today we are acutely aware of our dependence upon eastern oil. Just as threatening, however, are shortages of plant and equipment in many basic industries. While the precise condition of insufficiency and obsolescence varies, we are short of indispensable modern capacity in a broad range of industries, including petroleum, paper, steel, aluminum, and nonferrous metals.

In an age of international blackmail and embargo, this widespread condition is intolerable. And it is for this reason that the President's call for economic independence makes such great sense. While his focus was on oil, the same imperatives apply to many of the basic building blocks of a self-sufficient society.

Next, of course, comes the difficult question. How do we bring about a resurgence of American investment in America?

Slogans and political speeches won't do. Politicians can sound the alarm, but they have no money to invest, and they need not respond to shareholders and directors whose interest is in profits and dividends.

Investment, moreover, is not the kind of thing that responds to direction. Presently, neither the President nor Congress can order that a plant be built. Noninvestment is a passive condition that can easily survive sloganeering and all sorts of governmental urging.

It could, of course, come to pass that our government would impose a ban on foreign investment and some types of foreign trade until development of domestic capacity sufficient to meet minimal national requirements. There would doubtless be loopholes, but even after all of these were closed, the plan would fail. For such prohibitions might well prevent our firms and investors from building foreign plants or trading in foreign-made products, but would not lay one cornerstone or build one new building on our soil.

Finally, there may be those who propose direct control. This course would establish a different kind of economy, the kind that has thwarted five-year-plan after five-year-plan, and which would, without question, fail here.

Nonetheless, there is a new political dimension to those businesses dealing in essential materials and products. Certain business decisions must be recognized as also being decisions of fundamental public importance, and as affecting national policy and even national survival. As gasless Sundays are followed by cold nights, Americans will see this truth all too plainly. Our people will, with time for reflection, doubtless demand self-sufficiency, and some kind of action will have to be taken.

Probably the only way to prevent the adoption of abominable methods will be to come up with some kind of sound program. The best way to insure the building of a modern industrial base would be to make it profitable for our firms to construct new mills, refineries and plants. Profitability, however, may be elusive. Thus incentives, whether by subsidy, tax credits or government loans may be needed.

Big Pile of Dirt

Pacifica Denies 'Parking' Plan

A dispute over a pile of dirt and rubble on the Sharp Park Beach, opposite the new Pacifica Wastewater Treatment Plant, took a fresh turn Nov. 26.

City Atty. John Sherman continued to deny that the pile was fill for a parking lot to serve the new fishing pier. He is doing everything possible to see that the pile of dirt is removed, he insisted.

He added, however, that the Coastal Conservation Regional Commission has no power to stop the city from installing two rows of rip-rap — walls of rock and rubble — on the beach, on both sides of the pier, in order to protect its foundations.

This matter arose when Ruth Paige, 178 Catalina Ave. — of the "Keep Pacifica Scenic" organization — spoke of a letter recently written to City Mgr. Dave Thompson by Olney Smith, executive director of the Coastal Conservation Regional Commission.

Smith wrote that all dumping from the sewer plant construction, on to the beach, must cease immediately. He noted Sherman had promised that the dirt would be removed by Nov. 20.

Smith also said in his letter that the contractors' plans call for placement of 250 feet of concrete rip-rap on the beach, north and south of the pier, within the following week. This project is subject to the permit requirements of the Coastal Commission, he said, and violation of these requirements is subject to "substantial penalties."

Sherman contended, however, that the coastal commission cannot stop the city from installing the rip-rap, needed to protect the pier.

He argued that the rip-rap project was part of the sewer plant contract, in which the city had vested rights, and that the commission had no power to subdivide the contract.

"We have a legal right and an obligation to fulfill the contract," Sherman declared.

He explained that the delay in moving the dirt was due to rainy weather. However, should the contractor fail to remove the dirt, Sherman pledged, he will get the "attorney general after him."

The city attorney also explained that one difficulty is that a good deal of the rubble, which is part of the disputed pile of dirt, is claimed by the contractor to be for the rip-rap wall.

Mrs. Paige, and other conservationists as well as Sharp Park neighborhood leaders, claim the city originally had a plan for a parking lot on the beach, to serve the pier.

Attempted Murder, Robbery Charged

A 19-year-old was arrested by South San Francisco police Nov. 28 after the young man, in attempting a robbery, battered the heads of two victims with a club, and was himself slashed on the nose with a 9-inch carving knife.

Police booked Roderick Tyrone Abeyta on suspicion of armed robbery and attempted murder after following a trail of blood to a nearby residence. He is now in custody at the County Jail in Redwood City.

Treated at Peninsula Hospital, Burlingame, for multiple scalp contusions and abrasions, and then discharged, were Chester H. Kim, 66, and his wife Suk C. Kim, 58.

According to police, the robbery occurred at the Jumping Bean Restaurant, 269 El Camino Real, shortly after midnight.

Police said Abeyta entered the rear of the establishment at closing time with a wooden club in his hand and demanded money. He then, according to police, assaulted the Kims, owners of the eatery, and took an undetermined amount of cash and a checkbook.

In the melee, Kim retaliated by slashing at Abeyta with a carving knife and inflicted a cut on Abeyta's nose, police said.

After the robber left, a police radio report went out giving a description of the attacker. While some officers followed a trail of blood, police received a call of a youth bleeding from the nose in the 700 block of Southwood Drive, near the Jumping Bean.

Officers John Neal and Chuck Zetterholm made the arrest.

Fazackerley Asks Hearing Delay

Tom Bocci, attorney for fired South San Francisco Policeman Keith Fazackerley, asked the city's Personnel Board Nov. 29 for an indefinite delay in setting a hearing on discharge of his client until after criminal charges have been processed.

The Board, chaired by Richard Battaglia, adjourned its meeting to Dec. 12, at which time they will give their decision when a hearing will be held on Fazackerley's firing.

Fazackerley is due to appear in Municipal Court Dec. 11 for a plea on charges of assaulting a 23-year-old woman Nov. 4 while answering a call.

He was discharged from the force for "alleged misconduct by an officer in the performance of his duty."

The city has hired San Mateo Attorney Dick Bennett to represent it in its Personnel Board hearing.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Bill Larsen has stated that the criminal charges on the latest firing of Fazackerley "run parallel" but are independent of one another. Fazackerley, who demanded the Personnel Board hearing, has announced his intention of fighting the charges. He recently thwarted a previous attempt to fire him when the Personnel Board ordered his reinstatement.

Hi-Fi Stolen In Pacifica

A $1,000 burglary of hi-fi equipment was disclosed Monday by Pacifica police.

The burglary was first reported Friday at the Desvio Court home of Carol Ann Goodwin.

The burglary occurred at mid-day, police report, while Mrs. Goodwin was gone for about three hours. During that time, however, her 14-year-old daughter and a friend were upstairs while her younger daughters were playing outside.

None of the girls saw or heard anything suspicious, police said. The four-channel stereo equipment was located in a downstairs room.

Arson Case to Court

A Citrus Heights man, Richard M. Crider, was arraigned Monday on a charge of arson, before South San Francisco Northern District Judge Charles Becker, who set Dec. 3 for the preliminary hearing.

According to South San Francisco firemen, Crider was arrested near the scene of a $17,000 fire at 533 Rocca Ave., Sunday night.

The fire started in the garage after an inflammable liquid was poured around, firemen alleged. The entire garage area of the two-story home was enveloped.

The flames traveled up the stairs and along the outside of the house, inflicting damage throughout the building, including $2000 worth of contents, firemen stated. It took 15 men, with fire trucks, to bring the fire under control.

Marilyn Vrontecos and three older children living in the house managed to escape without injury, firemen said. Officials believe Crider was visiting Mrs. Vrontecos.

Shoplifting An 'Epidemic'

nothing more serious than a warning.

"Shrinkage," the name that stores give to shoplifting losses and pilfering, has spread like a cancer throughout the industry, reports indicate.

This year many San Mateo county retail stores have decided to toughen their attitudes in dealing with lawbreakers in an effort to reduce losses.

Each store, or chain, sets its own policy in most cases.

Some will dismiss an incident if it concerns an amateur and is less than, say, $50. Others will file charges regardless of the amount involved in the crime.

Last year, J. C. Penney company's Westlake Shopping Center manager Donald Davis tried a new tact; he insisted young offenders caught with the goods by security police call their parents and explain why they committed the crime.

In most cases the parents were stunned upon receiving such a call, according to Davis.

How much merchandise is grabbed off by shoplifters is not known.

No one — police, retailers and store security agents — can verify or debate loss figures bandied about. They all agree stores are being hit hard by shoplifters, credit card swindles and internal thefts.

In the end, these losses are passed on to consumers.

Shoppers are stuck with the higher costs. Still, many who see shoplifting in progress turn the other way instead of alerting store personnel.

This apathy on the part of the average shopper and the popularity of credit cards has produced a new security element — the plainclothes floorwalker.

No more can one see the floorwalker of years past with a white carnation stuck in his lapel.

Today's security guard may be a slight woman pushing a baby stroller with a handbag draped over her shoulder. Or the "guard" might be a "hippy type" walking around in sandals.

tions today than ever before.

Unlikely as it may sound, today's shoplifter doesn't seem to mind being caught. The stigma of being a shoplifter, as in years past, is gone.

One chainstore manager in the North County said a young girl he had apprehended stealing some small cosmetic articles "told me to forget the lecture, let me sign the release and let me go home."

This same story is repeated by other security officers in the industry.

Courts are also being blamed for the rise in shoplifting crimes. Personnel attached to retail store security claim many courts are too lenient letting offenders off with a warning or small fine.

The policy some stores have of letting shoplifters caught with less than $50 in goods off with a lecture also contributes to the increasing incidence of thefts, others say.

Small stores feel that filing complaints against a person apprehended for shoplifting is a complete waste of time and money. For the most part they prefer to forget the incident.

All stores — large and small — keep a "who's who" file on shoplifters.

Many security agents are on the lookout for these known shoplifters and maintain a close vigil on them from the moment they walk into a store. This file is made available to all store personnel and is required reading by most stores, it was learned.

"People must learn they are the ones paying for shoplifting. They can help combat these crimes by alerting store personnel or police of a suspected shoplifter," Daly City police sergeant John Kolbmann, a consultant to major department stores on such crimes, said.

Fireplace for Heat Calls for Extra Care

As millions of Americans take measures to cope with the nation's energy crisis, the San Mateo Region Red Cross urges energy-consicous consumers to avert home emergencies by taking extra safety precautions and reviewing first-aid procedures for burns and other injuries that may occur.

"Conservation of fuel and other energy sources has been made an individual responsibility for all Americans," said William K. Graham, chairman of the local Red Cross First Aid Committee. "But many of the same actions taken to soften impact of the energy crisis — using fireplaces to cut down on fuel, for instance — could lead to disaster if safety precautions are not observed."

Graham said that foremost among possible dangers is improper use of home fireplaces or other heaters. "In many homes, fireplaces have been used mostly for enjoyment rather than heating; others have been idle for years," he explained. "But with the lack of heating fuel and a rapidly-approaching winter season, an increasing number of families will undoubtedly find themselves using fireplaces as an important source of heat."

He suggested the following fireplace safety tips:

— Be sure chimneys and dampers are cleaned and in good working order. A blocked chimney could force smoke into the room causing danger of serious illness or asphyxiation as well as damage to furnishings.

— Build the fire toward the back of the fireplace opening; fire size should be commensurate with the size of the opening.

— Don't use kerosene, lighter fluid or gasoline to start fires. Paper and small tinder may take a little longer, but are still best for the job.

— Use matches safely, holding only one match at a time. Strike the match away from yourself, never toward anyone, and not close to your face.

— Keep screens around fireplaces. Be sure the screen fits and that it covers height, length and width of opening.

— Keep wood and paper stored away from the fireplace to prevent sparks from igniting it.

— Don't leave a roaring fire unattended at any time. At night, don't retire leaving embers in the fireplace unless it is well screened.

Pacifica Group Is Formed

The United Citizens for Pacifica — that ad hoc group that backed the successful Rockaway Highlands referendum — has now become a permanent Pacifica organization.

In a meeting Thursday night, attended by 30 persons, the UCP elected Delorus Wagner of Coral Ridge Drive as their new chairman and Jim Cuevas, co-chairman.

The group set a meeting for Dec. 12 at a location yet to be announced. They are inviting all potential council candidates who wish the group's backing to state their positions.

"We hope to make a combined effort on behalf of these candidates," said Janice Fulford, who chaired the meeting Thursday night.

At Thursday's meeting, Elizabeth Hough, who as treasurer had been the UCP's only officer, said all their funds had been spent on the successful campaign, and she was stepping down from her post. About 30 persons attended the meeting.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks.

Cookie baking is fun any time of the year, but the most pleasant and rewarding time is at Christmas. Not only do we have the fun of baking with our children aiding and abetting our efforts, but we are able to share our creations with friends and family.

Since we are trying to conserve energy, it's a good idea to bake two or three batches of cookies while the oven is hot. These first spicy cookies, besides filling the house with the most delightful scents, have to be chilled before baking. While the chilling is taking place, you can bake a different variety.

SUGAR'N'SPICE COOKIES

- 1 cup sugar
- ¾ cup shortening
- 1 egg
- ¼ cup dark molasses
- 2 cups sifted flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons soda
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon each cloves and ginger

Cream together the one cup sugar, three-fourths cup shortening. Add the egg and fourth cup molasses. Mix thoroughly.

Sift together the two cups sifted flour, fourth teaspoon salt, two teaspoons soda, one teaspoon cinnamon and fourth teaspoon each cloves and ginger. Add to creamed mixture and blend thoroughly. Chill in refrigerator.

Shape into small balls and space on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake in 375-degree oven 15 to 20 minutes.

RAISIN COOKIE ROLL

- 1 and two-thirds cups sifted flour
- ¼ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup margarine
- 1 egg, separated
- 4 teaspoons milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup chopped seedless raisins
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- ¼ teaspoon apple pie spice

One-third cup sugar

Frosting

Resift the one and two-thirds cup flour with the one-fourth cup sugar and fourth teaspoon salt. Cut in the half cup butter to a fine meal consistency. Beat the egg yolk lightly with the four teaspoons milk and one teaspoon vanilla. Blend into flour mixture. Knead lightly, until dough forms a ball. Chill a few minutes.

Mix two tablespoons slightly beaten egg white with the one cup chopped raisins, one-third cup sugar, one teaspoon lemon juice and one-fourth teaspoon apple pie spice.

Roll the dough out into a 5x10-inch rectangle on lightly floured board. Slide onto a sheet of waxed paper for easier handling.

Shape the raisins into a roll down the middle of the dough and bring up two long sides of dough to encase filling, overlapping edges slightly to seal; press down to make smooth seam. Pinch ends to seal. Place roll seam side down on baking sheet.

Bake in 300-degree oven about 1 hour. Cool, then spread with frosting. Cut into slices to serve. Makes about 1½ dozen slices.

FROSTING

- 1½ tablespoons soft margarine
- few drops vanilla
- 1½ teaspoons milk
- ½ cup sifted confectioners sugar
- 1 to 2 drops red food coloring

In small mixing bowl combine the one and one-half tablespoons margarine, vanilla, one and one-half teaspoons milk, one-half cup confectioners sugar and 1 to 2 drops red food coloring and mix until smooth.

I KNOW that you good cooks know that the amount of zucchini called for in last weeks recipe was incorrect. The correct amount is one and one-half pounds.

Pacifica Realtor Attends Confab

Involvement of Realtors in land use and environmental quality decision was among the topics discussed at a planning session attended in Los Angeles recently by Mrs. Anne Campbell, 1974 President elect of the Pacifica-Coastside Board of Realtors.

Sponsored by the California Real Estate Association, the meeting was held at the Biltmore Hotel to bring together CREA's newly elected officers and those of the 70,000 member group's 172 boards of Realtors to plan projects and activities for 1974.

"Taking an active part in resolving the problems of land use and ecology in a way that make our lives more enjoyable," Mrs. Campbell said, "was one of the directions stressed for 1974 by the association's President-elect, C. Larry Hoag of Downey.

While Realtors along with others realize how complex environmental considerations become, she said, CREA is developing guidelines, "which they believe would be helpful in protecting the rights of property owners and the legitimate goals and concerns of the public."

She said Hoag, Zan Beckstead, executive vice president of CREA, Richard Farrer of Hayward, its first vice president and others discussed legislative trends and the conduct of committees and programs to make the year effective on a statewide basis.

OJT Program Opens

The On-The-Job (OJT) Program, opened a new Daly City office in November at 6069 Mission Street.

This new location brings much needed employment services and counseling to the unemployed in Northern San Mateo County, according to Nancy Van Huffel, Project Director of OJT.

Ms. Van Huffel, long associated with OJT in Southern San Mateo County, and newly appointed Director of the OJT Project, established this new office with high goals for placement of individuals in job training positions.

On-The-Job Training has a proven record of uncovering employment possibilities in a large variety of work situations. The continuing counseling services help new employees through the process of orienting themselves to the world of work and industry.

Over the past eight years, OJT has placed over 3,000 individuals with Bay Area firms (last year 100 trainees were placed in San Mateo County), and the income generated in salaries tops $44 million over the 5-County Bay Area.

This year marks the first year OJT, which is funded by the Department of Labor, has negotiated contracts with individual counties under the Revenue Sharing concept.

The separate contracts make for a slightly different operation of OJT. One marked difference in Alameda County this year, for example, is that there can be no job upgrading through OJT. All contracts in Alameda County must now be with trainees who can be certified as disadvantaged.

Ms. Van Huffel says, "We are required by our contract to develop 462 jobs in the Bay Area this year, but the staff is working toward developing twice that many."

The Daly City office will hold a Community Open House Dec. 13, from 2-7 p.m. All community people, employers, service agencies and unemployed persons in Northern San Mateo County are invited to come in and acquaint themselves with the staff and facilities. Free refreshments will be served.

Placement Test Dates Announced

Two Placement Tests for persons planning to register at Skyline College, San Bruno will be held Dec. 8 at 8 a.m. and Dec. 11 at 6:30 p.m., James C. Wyatt, Dean of Students, announced.

All the tests will be held in the Administration Building —Bldg. 1, room 131.

Wyatt stated that the two test dates have been designed to accommodate those persons who cannot come during the day as well as those individuals who can only take the test on a weekend.

"It is important that all prospective students take the Placement Test. It will help the student in planning their programs for the spring semester," Wyatt said. Also, we want to urge those persons who can take the test on Saturday to do so since it is primarily set up for the day class students. However, the Tuesday evening test has been set aside to accommodate the evening class student and the other day students who cannot take the test on Saturday."

Wyatt also announced that the final date for turning in financial aid applications is Dec. 14.

The applications for admissions forms and materials are now available at the college with applications and transcripts information due date currently set January 4.

Chamber To Elect Officers

The South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce will elect its new officers for 1974, at the annual board meeting Thursday at 7:30 a.m.

Nov. 28, the Chamber elected six new directors for three-year terms. They were Ben Mortara, Betty Myerson, Basil Cavalieri, Harvey Fanucci, James Noe and Al Cremolini. Under a recently adopted charter revision, the new officers will take office Jan. 1.

The South San Francisco Chamber has 18 directors, a third of whom are elected every three years.

Retiring President Marge Lockwood gave an optimistic report at Wednesday's meeting, announcing that the Chamber was in a solvent position regarding various projects. As a result of a recent membership drive, membership was reported to be at an all-time high — 385.

Energy Crisis Hits The Salvation Army

The Salvation Army, which has been hit by the oil shortage is removing all 65 of its donation drop boxes in San Francisco, Marin and San Mateo counties, but its trucks will make pickups of clothing and furniture donations along regularly scheduled routes.

Major George Duplain, director of the Social Service Center, at 1500 Valencia St., in San Francisco, said that by making scheduled pickups along regular routes, the trucks will be able to make more pickup stops, or less gas mileage, than they do now by stopping to empty every donation box. The boxes are scattered at various locations in the three counties.

The Social Service Center operates 10 Thrift Stores, between Redwood City and Petaluma, and the sale of donated items in the stores supports the Center's long term, in-treatment program for alcoholics and other handicapped people.

Major Duplain said the Center has begun a telephone solicitation program, asking householders to donate clothing, furniture and other items. The Salvation Army trucks will make scheduled pickups of items people are willing to donate, and Major Duplain said the new system should help to compensate for the removal of donation boxes.

He said the Salvation Army, like other gasoline and oil users, is facing cutbacks, month-to-month uncertainties and price increases.

Major Duplain said that in the present oil shortage, the trucks would have been unable to empty the boxes on Sundays. "It would create a mess at the boxes over the weekend, people leaving things on the sidewalk next to the boxes," he said. "We have had a problem with thefts from the boxes, and it would get worse if we had to leave the boxes full the weekend.

"Some persons, who have regularly used our deposit boxes, will be inconvenienced by the removal of the boxes. We believe, however, that most of them will respond in the usual faithful manner as they always have in every emergency."

Periwinkle Displays Pottery and Drawings

This month's featured exhibit at the Pacifica Periwinkle Art Gallery is pottery, drawings and sculpture by two Pacificans, Liliane Natwick and Thomas Jackson.

Liliane Natwick, well known Pacifica potter was born and raised in Belgium. Lili studied art at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, Michigan, and the University of Colorado. She had been involved with pottery since 1957, studying under Ernie Kim and Grace Beiler. Ms Natwick is a founding member of the Pacifica Potters' Workshop. She is a member of the Pacifica Art Guild.

A special woman-made "grotto" has been constructed at Periwinkle to exhibit Ms. Natwick's varied and earthy pottery. Combining wheel thrown pieces with slab construction, she has created a collection of unusual gift items.

Tom Jackson is exhibiting a series of whimsical drawings devoted to owls, snails, frogs and bears. His sculpture covers such classic characters as Cyrano, Quasimoto and Don Quixote.

Jackson began cartooning at age nine while recuperating from scarlet fever.

A workshop, "People in Partnership — Growing Older in North County," is being presented by the North County Citizens Advisory Committee under the chairmanship of Karen Norton and Dr. Rudio Tretten, beginning at 9 a.m. and continuing until 2 p.m. in the school located at 6996 Mission St.

Five areas of concern, Transportation, How to get Services, How Seniors Feel about Growing Old, Recreation and Education and Involvement, will be discussed in committee sessions by those attending the workshop. Steve Graham of the San Mateo Commission on Aging will attend to relay criticisms and suggestions back to the county offices. William T. Baird will give the kenote address.

Tickets, costing $8.50 are available from the alumni office, 1000 Cayuga Street in San Francisco.

Salud Para la Gente

Health for People

By Keevin Davis and Rosemarie Herdandez

HMO'S — What are they?

You may have heard about a different way of providing medical care called a "pre-paid group practice."

By a "prep-paid group practice" or "health maintenance organization," I mean a health plan which a family joins. It agrees to pay a set amount each month to an organization with a group of doctors who work together. This organization in return, provides care for your medical and hospital needs — no matter how much care your family requires during that period — at no cost beyond the set amount already paid.

A family would enroll in this system instead of traditional health insurance. Such organizations not only offer distinct advantages for the consumers but also for the "health care providers" — doctors and hospitals. They also eliminate "red tape" of administrative operations.

WITH RESPECT to hospitals: If they have empty beds, it makes sense to contract with an HMO for a guaranteed amount of money every month.

With respect to doctors: If the advantages for the hospitals have been determined, it will not be hard to determine the advantages for the doctors. In an HMO they do have a schedule that will guarantee them a set number of work hours.

In the Mid-West some doctors, after five years of working in an HMO, have been able to take a year off, with 60 per cent of their regular salary. It permitted them to take a vacation, spend time with their family, and do some of the things they always wanted but never had time to do. They make as much or more money this way than they would usually make practicing on their own.

Here is a potential situation in which doctors can give something away, and at the same time also get a good deal themselves. Now they can afford to expand the benefit package, perhaps provide free transportation, free emergency medical care, and service to people who cannot pay.

ACCORDING TO a survey, it has been proven that doctors make as much or more money working with an HMO. Another advantage of the HMO is that the community has better access to the medical system.

People will be able to receive all their necessary medical care without the worry of how much it will cost, since the premium has already been paid to the HMO. Since the HMO is the administrative organization it is able to:

— Collect the premiums.
— Prepare contracts with the hospitals and doctors.
— Design the benefit package.
— Determine what those benefits will cost.
— Decide which hospitals it will contract with.
— Decide how long the clinics will be open and where they will be located.

A good suggestion for communities forming an HMO, is to get strong consumer representation on the board. HMOs are usually non-profit organizations with approximately 11 board members. The key is money and subscribers. Six consumers out of a board of 11 is a good number for good control. People placed on the board should be people who are able to bring a large number of subscribers to the HMO. In other words, they are people with the potential for getting other people in: such as union men, college deans, retired persons, and community organizations. They should naturally also be willing to become subscribers themselves.

AN HMO of 30,000 subscribers would mean about $13 million a year, and this is with a minimum benefit package. You see, you are talking about big money. Premiums can range from $22 a month to $60 per member per month. They may have psychiatric services and dental services. The government wants to see communities working for their own improvements, becoming self-sustaining. So on HMO is not only health, but business as well.

In order to get subscribers, somebody has to go to the community and inform the people of the advantages of the HMO. Mass enrollment costs usually run about $4 for every member enrolled. For about 30,000 at $4 each, it would mean $90,000 gross income to the Marketing Firm.

It is suggested that the HMO develop its own marketing staff capability. This will provide jobs to the community. Community people know their neighbors. They should be more willing to listen to the explanation of the benefits of the package if it is explained by somebody they know. They will take the time to listen to the explanation and therefore learn how to get the maximum use of the benefit package.

Currently, 70 per cent of the people holding insurance policies do not make full use of their policy for whatever reasons. But with this, they will know what they get and how to get it.

Planes de Salud Prepagados — Que son?

Quizas Vd. a oido de una forma diferente de proveer servicios medicos llamada "plan de salud prepagado." Con esto quiero decir un plan de salud en que una familia consiegu miembrecia y acepta pagar una especifica cantidad de dinero cada mes a una organizacion con un grupo de medicos que trabajan juntos. En cambio, esta organizacion provee todos sus servicios medicos — no importa cuanto servicio su familia requiere durante ese periodo, o ningun centavo extra.

Una familia pertenece a este programa en vez de a un plan tradicional de seguro de salud. Tales organizaciones no solamente ofrecen ventajas distintas al consumidor, pero tambien a los "proveedores de servicio de salud" — medicos y hospitales. Tambien elimina much del papeleo en la administracion.

HOSPITALES: Si los hospitales tienen camas vacias, es logico que contreten con un programa para tener una cantidad garantizada cada mes.

Con respecto a los Medicos: Si las ventajas con los hospitales han sido determinadas, no sera dificil establecer las ventajas con los medicos. En un programa existe un horario que les garantiza un horario de trabajo.

En una aerea del pais algunos medicos, despues de trabajar 5 anos en un programa, pudieron descansar un ano, con 60 per cent de su salario regular. Esto les ha permitido tomar vacaciones, pasar una temporada con sus familiares, y hacer alguns otros cosas que siempre han querido hacer, pero nunca tenian el tiempo. Ellos hacen la misma cantidad o mas de esta manera.

Aqui hay un caso en que los medicos pueden regalar algo, y al mismo tiempo obtener un beneficio ellos mismos. Ahora ellos pueden apoyar el desarrollo del beneficio. Quizas pueden proveer transportacion gratis, cuidado medico gratis en casos de emergencia, y tambian servicio a los que no pueden pagar. Lo que la mesa directiva del programa decide hacer.

SEGUN UN esudio reciente, ha sido Probado que los medicos hacen el mismo salario trabajando en un programa, y a veces hasta mas. Otra ventaja de un programa es que la comunidad tiene un mejor acceso al sistema medico.

Las personas pueden recibir todo el cuidado medico necesario sin preocuparse cuanto les va ha costar, ya que el fue pagado por el programa.

Tomando en cuenta que el programa es una organizacion administriva, tiene la habilidad de:

—colectar los beneficios.

—preparar contratos con los hospitales y medicos.

—disenar el plan de beneficios.

—determinar cuanto va a costar los beneficios.

—decidir cuales son los hospitales con los cuales van a contratar.

Una buena sugerencia para las comunidades formando un programa, es para obtener una fuerto representacion del consumidor en la mesa directiva. Los programas son a veces organizaciones acaritativas con aproximadamente 11 miembros de la mesa directive.

La clave es el dinero y miembros. En una mesa directiva con 11 miembros, 6 miembros que sean consumidores representa buen control. Las personas en la mesa directiva deben ser gente que puede atraer a grandes supscriptores al programa.

MAJOR DICHO, ellos son miembros que tienen la habilidad de atraer a otras personas: por ejemplo, miembros de un sindicato de trabajadores, un catedratico de universidad, personas retiradas, organizaciones de la comunidad, o quien sea. Los Miembros deben ser subscriptores tambien.

Un programa de 30,000 subscriptores seran 13 millones de dolares por ano, y esto es con un plan minimo de beneficios. Esto tiene que ver con una gran cantidad de dinero. Los Beneficios en general corren desde $22.00 al mes hasta $60.00 por miembro al mes. Tienen muchos servicios psiquiatricos igual que servicios dentales, etc.

El gobierno quiere ver a comunidades trabajando por sus propios beneficios, que sean independientes de ayuda federal. Asi que un programa no es solamente de salud, pero de negocio tambien.

Con el proposito de obtener membrecia, alguien tiene que ir hacia la comunidad para informarle a la gente acerca de las ventajas de un plan.

Airlines Offer Holiday Fares

By LORENE BEASLEY

If you are planning a vacation by air during the holidays you may be able to save yourself a sizeable amount of money by checking with the airlines to see if you qualify for a special fare.

Discount fares are being offered on long distance travel. There are conditions that you must comply with, or you will be asked to pay the regular rate. For example, you may have to make reservations two weeks in advance and for some, three months in advance. You must travel midweek only, and return after 7 to 9 days. There is no holiday or peak period traveling on this plan.

Most airlines offer two youth fare plans. The cheapest is youth fare standby. You will be the last of the passengers called and may not get on the flight at all. Youth fare reserve guarantees you a seat on a reserved flight but it will cost you more. If you plan to fly on a youth fare card, read the back. Know what airlines accept it and under what conditions you are eligible for a discount.

All reservations should be made well in advance for holiday flights because of the fuel shortage.

Camera shops are warning camera bugs who are planning holiday trips that airline security measures may ruin photographic film in checked baggage. Some anti-hijacking devices used to check baggage for possible concealed weapons use X-rays, which will fog your film, whether or not it has been exposed.

One of the best ways to protect film while traveling is to place it in a strong, clear, plastic bag and hand carry it. Even though the film may be clearly visible in the bag, make sure that the airline boarding personnel are aware of the film so that it will not be accidentally subjected to X-rays.

Roosevelt P-TA Holds Meeting

Franklin D. Roosevelt P-TA held their first P-TA meeting of the school year Nov. 29.

After the regular business meeting an up to date report on the Early Childhood Education program was given. Members of the Daly City and Pacifica police departments were in attendance to discuss the problems presented by the fact that the school is so close to the Daly City and Pacifica boundary lines that residents sometimes don't know which police department to call.

The school special project fund and the coming Christmas boutique were also discussed.

Mrs. Joyce Lunghi is president of the P-TA.

Colma Creek Environmental Report Approved by County

The San Mateo County Planning Commission has found the final environmental impact report (EIR) concerning the proposed multi-million Colma Creek flood control project to be "complete, correct and adequate," although the project will have a "significant effect" on the environment.

A staff report to the commission notes that EIR guidelines require a mandatory finding of significance whenever a project will cause substantial adverse effects upon human beings, either directly or indirectly.

Federal courts have indicated that the relocation of people specifically constitutes such an effect, the report states.

Inasmuch as the Colma Creek project will entail the relocation of up to 58 mobile homes at the Treasure Island Trailer Court in South San Francisco, "staff has no choice" but to recommend the "significant effect" finding, the report states.

To date, the foundation has donated $150,000 to city. At presentation held at City Hall Thursday were (from left) Mayor Anthony Giammona, Fred Gellert, Council Bernard J. # Children

There is a new children's book on the market that may be a picture of the future and as such sends cold chills down your backbone.

"The Endless Pavement" by Jacqueline Jackson and William Pearlmutter tells of Josette who lives in the family Home-a-Rolla that moves in its appointed position in computer-controlled lanes of circling vehicles. Her entertainment consists of televised autoraces. This is all she knows of the world.

One evening the "screen" breaks down temporarily and Josette has nothing to do but think (most unusual in her world) and ask questions of her parents. She learns from them that once people did not live in Home-a-Rollas. Once they moved among trees and walked upon grass. "It was fun," her parents said.

When Josette sees a plant growing in a crack in her spinning home, she actually bolts from her roll-about chair and for the first time learns that she can walk and run without direction from a computer. This knowledge brings upon her a spasm of rebellion causing her to destroy the "great computer-mobile" and open the way for people to leave Home-a-Rollas forever.

"THE ENLESS PAVEMENT was reviewed by "America" magazine as "light yet provocative, rhythmically narrated in sparse, carefully selected words." It is directed towards children eight to ten years.

In "America" this title and others are reviewed by Ethna Sheehan in an article entitled, "Christmas Choices in Children's Books." Thirty books are listed; among them is "Dreams of Victory" by Ellen Conford. Here is Vicky, a normal, bumbling, likeable sixth grader who fails at dancing, ice-skating, and anything else that takes coordination. She experiences such problems as fear — when riding on a ferris wheel — and frustration, as she fumbles her non-speaking role in the class play.

After every failure she imagines that she is a famous actress, or a beauty pageant winner or an Olympic champion. Thus she dreams and suffers until she is forced to write a composition on "Imagination." Suddenly her dreams flow from her pen to a paper that brings an "A" from the teacher and the admiration of the rest of the class. At last Vicky is on the road to happiness.

In "A Proud Taste for Scarlet and Miniver," youthful readers meet a great woman from history, Eleanor of Aquitaine, who was the only woman to have been both queen of England and queen of France.

THE BIOGRAPHY shows Eleanor wasting no time with her first husband, Louis VII of France, or losing a moment of fun with her second husband, Henry II of England. It pictures the shrewdness, the high spirits, the love of art and music that placed Eleanor's name among the greatest patrons of culture the Western World has ever known.

Among the other titles Ms. Sheehan suggests for Christmas giving in the "America" article are "Tales of Mr. Pengachoosa," "Flash the Dash," "Ice Magic," "The Boy Who Didn't Believe in Spring," "Two Brothers," "The Coat-Hanger Christmas Tree," and "The Court of the Stone Children."

The latter book reveals that even in San Francisco there are unhappy children. Nina escapes from the strictures of a cramped apartment into a French museum. Here she meets delightful ghosts who lead her to a journal that was kept by children whose father was condemned for conspiracy against Napoleon. In the journal Nina finds evidence that leads her to clear up one of the mysteries of history. It's great fun.

S.S.F. Council to Send 2 to San Juan

In a special meeting last week, the South San Francisco City Council authorized two of its members and City Mgr. Ed Alario to travel to San Juan, Puerto Rico, for the annual National League of Cities convention, Dec. 2-6.

Leaving are Mayor Warren Steinkamp and Vice-Mayor Terry Mirri.

Alario, however, reported Thursday that he will not be going to San Juan, since his wife is having a minor operation.

Total cost of the trip is not known at this time. Alario estimates expenses at $40 a day per person.

Cost of the trip can vary according to air fare. These fares can range from $323.20 plus tax and security charge, for a simple round-trip, to over $400 and up for side trips. Thus, the cost could run from $483 to $560 per person.

The convention will last four days, and according to Alario, the councilmen plan to stop over in Washington, D.C. to confer with Congressman Leo J. Ryan and Sen. Alan Cranston.

The convention will take up pending legislation affecting cities, and hold seminars on such matters as rapid transit, the fuel shortage and the energy crisis, urban renewal and labor negotiation.

He felt that knowledge gained at the convention could save the city thousands of dollars.

Hillside Protection District

Pacifica To Discuss Ordinance

Pacifica's Hillside Review Board will discuss Dec. 11 strengthening of the Hillside Protection District Ordinance in accordance with wishes expressed by the electorate at a recent election, when the Rockaway Highlands rezoning was defeated.

City councilmen were concerned that the 805-unit residential project was the first major project designed in apparent accord with the ordinance — yet it was defeated by the voters.

At the council meeting following the election, councilmen directed the Hillside Review Board to reexamine the ordinance — and requested the Planning Commission to reexamine the planned development ordinance.

Among questions which have arisen are those of density of development, particularly where steep slopes are involved, and the definition of what is a ridgeline. Both questions figured in the election.

Meanwhile, the Hillside Review Board has made progress in two other major subdivisions to determine whether they fulfill the objectives of the ordinance.

Tuesday, they examined the Ocean Ridge project, a 138-unit condominium project of townhouses and single family cluster homes, to be built adjacent to San Bruno's Pacific Heights subdivision.

Board members favored the project but questioned traffic capacity of Sharp Park Road, natural drainage which may possibly cause flooding, response time from the Fairmont firehouse and the cost-revenue picture.

The Board made no recommendation on the project pending answers to questions they raised.

In addition, concern was raised in regard to the new energy crisis. Board members wanted to know whether the new tract could be accurately serviced both by water and power.

Meanwhile, next Tuesday, the board will take up the 108-unit Nutter Ranch complex, at the end of Zamora Drive, off of Valencia Way, in the Linda Mar district. Proposed for this area are 10 wood-frame buildings, of three stories over parking containing 108 two-bedroom units of 1100 square feet each.

Peninsula Filings Start Dec. 6

It's now official — filing for city council races for almost all Peninsula cities start Dec. 6 and end at noon Dec. 27.

Local city clerks attended a seminar in San Leandro Wednesday and had a host of ambiguities were cleared up, involving the change of election date from April to the first Tuesday following the first Monday in March. It will be held March 5.

Most cities have no filing fees. Nomination papers must have 20 to 30 names.

Pacifica City Mgr. David Thompson, who also acts as city clerk, said that candidates must post a $50 fee if they wish to put up signs, and pay their share of the cost of a statement of qualifications, sent to all the voters, if they wish to be included.

Pacifica councilmen Stan Farber and Don Halverson are expected to seek re-election while Hal Minshew will be running for sheriff, thus leaving a non-incumbent's spot expected to attract numerous candidates. Virginia Jaeger and Kitty Bouly Wilson have indicated their intention to run. Both Sid Lorvan and Janice Fulford are being groomed as candidates by local environmentalists.

Center Plans Carol Program

Westlake Shopping Center will be conducting a "Carols On The Mall" program during the Christmas season.

Interested singing groups can make arrangements to participate by calling Jack Early at 781-1951.

BART Bike Routes Will BeDiscussed

Public comment on a proposed network of bicycle routes and hiking and horseback-riding trails linked to BART will be sought in three regional hearings to be held in early December by the BART TRAILS Planning Study.

The hearings are to give individuals and groups interested in riding and hiking to and from BART — for commuting as well as recreation — a chance to shape the study's soon-forthcoming final recommendations.

The $50,000, federally funded planning project began a year ago under the joint sponsorship of BART, the East Bay Regional Park District, People for Open Space, San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association (SPUR), and the San Francisco Transit Task Force.

Its primary purposes have been to examine park and recreation potential of BART lands, to identify corridors linking BART with present and proposed Bay Area recreation areas, to weigh the importance of recreation access in selecting future rapid transit routes and station locations, to develop a system of bicycle commute routes to BART stations in San Francisco and the East Bay, and to establish requirements for improved accommodation of bicycles by BART.

December's community review sessions will feature an illustrated presentation summarizing the scope of the study, BART's relation to a trails network, how the trail plans were developed with specific examples cited from four pilot projects, the impact of the BART TRAILS plan, aspects of implementation, and future steps.

The first of the three area hearings on the project's conclusions will be in San Francisco, Dec. 6, in Room HLL 135 of the Humanities Building of California State University, San Francisco, 19th and Holloway Avenues.

All meetings will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. and conclude by 9:45 p.m. to enable participants to take BART home, if desired, by the system's holiday closing time of 10 p.m.

Filipino Group To Install Pres.

The Filipino-American Association of Northern San Mateo County will hold a buffet dinner for its president-elect Marcelino Enriquez on Dec. 7, after the 7 p.m. devotions to Our Lady of Perpetual Help at Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church Hall, Wellington Ave., Daly City.

Mr. and Mrs. Enriquez will leave shortly thereafter for a Christmas vacation in the Philippines. The Filipinos in the parish and friends are invited to the Bon Voyage party.

The newly elected officers of the association will be installed in February, 1974.

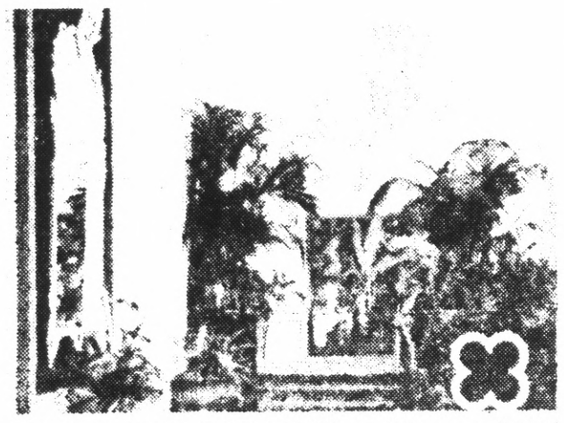
Children's Hospital Day on Sun. This Year

Sunday, December 9, is "Children's Hospital Day" at Bay Meadows and one of the largest crowds in the 40-year history of the San Mateo course is anticipated. This will mark the first time the $30,000 added Children's Hospital Handicap has been run on a Sunday and those buying tickets for the drawing on the horses for the race also receive ducats good for free admission to the track that day. Ticket costs just $1 and they entitle the purchaser to a chance for $25,000 in prizes on the "sweepstakes" conducted on the Children's Hospital "Cap." In recent years, Children's Hospital Day had been held on a Wednesday, a work day, and many with free tickets to the track were unable to attend. Many more will be able to make it this year. More than $2,500,000 has been realized for the building fund at the San Francisco Children's Hospital during the 35 years the women's auxiliary has presented race days at the Meadows. The members of the auxiliary, wearing the familiar yellow aprons, will be selling tickets at the track and other locations through Friday, December 7 for this year's drawing. They hope to raise another $100,000 and Bay Meadows is looking forward to a record day.



GARDEN-LIKE ENTRANCE — The new Lehr's Greenhouse restaurant and florist, although relatively new to the Bay Area dining scene, is already firmly established as one of San Francisco's finest restaurants. Excellent continental cuisine is featured at luncheon, dinner and Sunday Ramos Fizz Brunch. Served in a blooming garden of hundreds of flowers, lush green plants and towering banana palm trees.

Special charters can be arranged for overnighters or Turn-arounds (spending eight hours and returning). Also a special bonus package for drive-up. Generous bonuses are offered upon your club arrival . . . If you're in and around the South San Francisco-San Bruno areas and are thinking about a Holiday get-together, call the Brentwood Lodge in South San Francisco and ask about their facilities. # Seafood Flown in From East Daily

The Hungry Tiger in San Mateo offers its customers seafood from the great Eastern seacoast flown in fresh daily and served in Western hospitality. One of the special features is the classic New England clambake every Thursday night. The only deviation from the pattern of the old fashioned New England clambakes, which were prepared in open pits and served out-of-doors, is the preparation of the bakes in the Hungry Tiger's kitchen, and the serving of them in its banquet facility. Another feature here is the Sunday Brunch (every Sunday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.). It's a repast of brunch favorites, including Eggs Benedict, Hangtown Fry, Steak and Eggs, and Crab New Orleans. Also champagne cocktails, and fresh fruit from the serve-yourself table. A special children's menu, too. . . . Dave Rasmussen says his Shadows of San Mateo should experience one of the busiest Holiday seasons ever. Banquets and Christmas parties galore. The Shadows can accommodate more parties this year — since they are utilizing the space that was previously Davey's Locker. Now is a good time to reserve for those Holiday gatherings.

Antonio Sparks the New Finocchio Revue

If Liberace could see the gold lame suit worn by singer Antonio in the big Finocchio revue he would probably cry all the way to his tailor. Cuban Antonio sparks the show with a great rendition of "Strike Up the Band" — wearing a derby and twirling a cane . . . Cold winter evenings call for heart warming drinks, and Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant is just the place to sip a few. Hors d'oeuvres are served from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. nightly in the lounge. Whether its luncheon, dinner, or in-between snacking, the seafood and Italian specialties are palatable pleasers. Experienced waitresses show their professionalism in excellence of service . . . Jack Kuks, general manager of Tanforan Park's Garden Restaurants, will be introducing a new advertising campaign within the next few weeks. One particular Garden Restaurant will be featured, with several menu items offered at a special savings. Meanwhile, the complete Garden Restuarant complex is now on a Holiday schedule.

San Bruno Parks Must Be Sturdy

One message was made quite clear Wednesday night about the future development of San Bruno's parks.

"They have to be attractive and one step from indestructible," said City Mgr. Gerald Minford to the Park and Recreation Commissioners.

The statement was made in conjunction with a report Minford was making on the progress of Grundy Park. But throughout the evening he reiterated the problem the city has faced with vandalism of city park property.

As to Grundy Park, Minford said it will be one that will "be attractive and one step from indestructible."

He told the commissioners that Grundy park is being developed "without a great deal of expense," although a lot of man hours are involved, particularly in modifying a watering system.

According to Minford, some other improvements include the addition of a six-seater swing, new fencing and a tree and shrub planting all around the park "to create a feeling of a meadow."

Another park in the development stage discussed at the meeting was a pie-shaped park planned beneath the overpass intersection of Freeways 280 and 380. That 3.46 acre parcel was acquired by the city from the State Division of Highways which will be donating funds for its development.

Roy Davis, superintendent of parks, said the park will be designed for use as a group picnic area. Included at the site will be a barbeque shelter and restroom facilities.

Davis said the park, which is now in the blueprint stages, probably will be done in three phases. Completion was estimated at three years.

He said the first phase will be to bring in topsoil, install sprinklers and other utility lines.

The commissioners were told that the state will donate approximately $56,000 for development and the city has about $70,000 in capital improvements money earmarked for the facility.

Construction probably will start next spring.

In another park-related matter, commissioners were told that the moving of the Belle Air Tot Park closer to the school was completed, except for seeding.

Daly City Canned Food Drive Begins

The annual Christmastime canned food drive, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department as part of Operation Santa Claus, began on all Daly City playgrounds Dec. 1. Collections will continue through Dec. 20, it was announced this week.

Last year, over 15,000 canned goods were collected in a joint effort with Daly City schools, playgrounds and various local groups.

Unfair?

IT HURTS us to say this because it may hurt some kid athletes, but facts are facts, and the fact is that much of the currently published North Peninsula League All-Conference team is probably invalid because of the most stupid method of selecting ever conceived by man.

One of the genius coaches — a big winner, naturally — came up with a selection plan that makes about as much sense as putting a girdle on Twiggy. Unfortunately, just enough of the other coaches — the winners — went along with the plan to put it officially into effect.e

This plan is very simple. It had to be, because it had to be a simpleton who thought of it. Are you ready for it? The scheme was that a team would get one all-league player — chosen by the coach of that team — for every win the team got. Team won six, it got six all-leaguers. It won one, it got one all-leaguer, and like that.

So simple and uncomplicated was the plan that the braintrust forgot to account for ties. Thus, the bottom two teams, who each had a win and a tie, couldn't figure how to each have half an all-leaguer, so had to flip a coin to see which team got two all-leaguers, and which got one.

As the consequence of such shenanigans, a "team" emerged with five line backers and no quarterback, and most assuredly without some kids who should have made it, and, most assuredly, some who never would have made anything if they hadn't been on a winning team.

TO ASSUME that a losing team can't have several outstanding players, or that a winning team MUST have many outstanding individuals, is to cast away the principle of possible individual brilliance in a field of mediocrity in the former case, and the principle of teamwork in the latter.

It is an attitude which seems to use self-serving. We might even venture the opinion that such a selection system is more an ego builder for coaches than a character booster for students.

For those coaches who were obviously coerced into this situation we are sorry if we have offended them. For those players who were shafted — and especially for those who got something they may not have deserved — we are sorry. But life is full of absurdities, kids, and maybe it is better, after all, that you get used to them while you're still young enough to be able to digest them.

RICK BARRY may no longer be the Golden Boy wonder flash he was the first time around, but he's undoubtedly a much better all-around player now than he's ever been, as reflected in the latest Warrior stats. Barry leads the team in average points scored per game, in assists and steals, and is just barely behind Jeff Mullins in free throw percentage, right behind Cassie Russell and Mullins in field goal percentage, is third in rebounds, behind Nate Thurmond and Clyde Lee and behind only Thurmond in blocked shots.

THOUGHTS WHILE watching Thanksgiving football:

Mike White, Cal's head coach, keeps saying he has material, and keeps losing, mainly because that wealth of talent is apparently so undisciplined in the sense of foolish penalties at crucial times, etc.

White is one of the new breed of coaches who communicates with his charges, who "understands" them. So they fumble for him because, everybody says, they are inexperienced.

We hate to admit this, but Woodie Hayes and Bear Bryant sophomores and freshmen don't fumble. And their good material wins all the time.

So you pay your money and you take your choice. Lose with a clean-cut, understanding communicater, or win with a belligerent, obnoxious tyrant.

And did you notice that most of the Oklahoma football players are from Texas?

FOR ONE of the few times in recorded history, two bodies of voters last week actually made intelligent picks. Of course, their decisions weren't as difficult as it may seem, since they both really had only one choice. That choice was San Francisco State's football coach Vic Rowen, who was named Far Western Conference Coach of the Year by his fellow coaches, and Northern California Coach of the Year by the Northern California Football Writers Association.

What made Rowen's choice unusual is that he didn't win a championship. His Gators were in contention until the last game of the season, when they lost to Davis, 22-13. To less sophisticated pickers, that loss would have finished Rowen for such honors. Most such bodies like to vote only for the big winners. It's safe. But for once, at least, a coach was chosen for winning, and not just for having won it all.

Unforgettable Season Ends

Bulldogs' Bubble Bursts

By CHRISTOPHER STAVE
Post Sports Writer

College of San Mateo provided the stage for Saturday's State football playoff semifinal, but Fresno City College provided the entertainment.

In the final two minutes, with FCC safely on top by the final margin of 21-2, the Fresno band struck up a bump-and-grind ditty and, on the far sideline, the Fresno reserves formed a lumbering, kicking, exuberant chorus line.

San Mateo defensive back Gregg Houts shook his head, grinned and raised his fist in ironic tribute.

The Bulldogs weren't happy, but they weren't particularly despondent, either. Underdogs in every major game they played, they'd worked their way up the ratings ladder step by step before stopping at second-ranked Fresno.

"I'll never forget this season," said sophomore defensive lineman Lacy Atkinson, a service veteran and the team's elder statesman.

"We worked with a great coach — Steve Shafer is a defensive genius — and this young team pulled together beautifully. I was in the Marine Corps, and I've been part of many groups of men, but these guys have been as good in the trenches as any of them."

Mark Baker, a soph guard from Jefferson who filled in for hurting All-GGC performer Mike Borissenko, said, "Last year we were supposed to be a better team. But this year we were really together, and that made all the difference."

Unfortunately, togetherness availed CSM little against Fresno's size and speed. The Rams had trouble moving the ball against CSM's stubborn defense in the early going, but there was really little doubt who would dominate.

CSM's offense, which had sputtered off and on during the regular season, was swatted flat by Fresno's big linemen and rapid linebackers.

The Bulldogs got little on the ground (69 yards) and completed more passes to the Rams than to their own receivers — five completions in 23 attempts with six interceptions.

Fresno outgained CSM 307-129.

Some observers felt CSM's defense did a creditable job against Fresno's high-powered attack on the muddy field, but Houts disagreed.

"We made too many mistakes," he said. "We busted too many plays, gave up too many yards.

"They were extremely well-prepared. They knew about everything we did. They knew about our stunts, our looks, They were able to anticipate and audible all day."

A case in point was Fresno's opening touchdown, a 28-yard burst by running back Jeff Johnson.

"We were in an inside 'dog' " said Houts, "and the quarterback (Rick Jelmini) read it. He called out of it. The back ran a veer outside and there was nobody there to stop him."

Said defensive back Walt Belinsky, "I'm sorry it had to end this way, but it's really been a great season. We were always underdogs —"

"And it finally got to us," said Houts.

The defense was on the field a lot — CSM's offense, usually starting in terrible field position and unable to sustain a drive out, gave the Fresno attack plenty of chances.

And the Ram defense was undentable.

"Their linebackers were just super," said Baker. "There wasn't much we could do."

Fresno's defensive line, led by 6-7, 257-pound Greg Boyd, stacked everything up, and the linebackers' withering pursuit almost always got to the corner before Bulldog backs did. CSM receivers were rearely open, and CSM's quarterback cadre faced constant pressure.

CSM's only score, the safety, came when a high center snap pass$led over Ram punter Robert Kezirian and out of the end zone late in the game.

"We just couldn't move," said CSM coach Shafer. "The field position was bad. We were always asking the offense to drive 80 yards or more to score."

CSM finished Shafer's first season as head coach 8-3-1, Fresno (11-1) advances to the State championship Saturday in the Shrine Potato Bowl at Bakersfield, against Los Angeles City College.

Shafer and his staff will spend the next three weeks or so working to place the graduating sophomores — seeing that as many as possible "scholarship out."

CSM graduates seven of the 11 offensive starters.

CANADA WANTS TO FOLLOW SUIT

Skyline Plans: Football by 1975

By CHRISTOPHER STAVE
Post Sports Writer

Skyline College's biggest athletic dream may soon come true.

The Trojan athletic department and administration are working toward fielding a football team for the 1975 season.

Money has been budgeted for a two-stage operation. Equipment would be purchased next year, if the budget is approved. The team would be fielded the year after that.

Canada College athletic director Sam Nicolopulos said Friday that his school also hopes to have football in 1975, but that his school faces more obstacles than Skyline.

Both schools believe that football programs would attract approximately 300 more students to their campuses. This could result in more state revenue.

Says Skyline athletic director Walt Rilliet, "My president, John C. Peterson, has heard from the com7ipc39munity. There have been petitions. There is a community support for football. I've asked for a football program for four years, and I've been calmly, rationally told 'no.' You have to accept this. Sports has to be part of the total educational picture.

"Now, the money is budgeted. And I'm glad. There is the community to be served. It's tough to see students pass by here every day on their way somewhere else because there's a program we don't offer. We believe we'll be providing a more complete all-round program with football."

After August, if the budget is approved, Rilliet will purchase equipment, and then start looking for a coaching staff.

"We'll try to have a realistic schedule — schools with our size and philosophyt — and take things as they come. We're happy to be in the Coast Conference, because the other schools have enrollments similar to ours.

"We'd hope to have five or six home games to start, and play at Clifford Field and Terra Nova. I think this is the sort of thing that will help us to be a real community college."

Canada's plans aren't so far along. Nicolopulos has discussed prospects with Canada President James Duke, who gave Nicolopulos the go-ahead to explore the situation.

But, according to Nicolopulos, that exploration has so far not proceeded beyond the cost-analysis stage. There are problems to overcome: there is currently no practice field facility, and there is no storage area for equipment.

College of San Mateo's football program would undoubtedly be affected if either school fielded a team; CSM football currently draws from areas serviced by both Canada and Skyline.

One reason both Canada and Skyline are anxious to get football programs is that they are, in practice if not in theory, discriminated against in State JC athletic circles. Very little either school has to say carries much weight, because football considerations rule all others.

If both schools do indeed reach their goals, Nicolopulos for one wouldn't mind seeing all three included in one Peninsula League; the competition would be relatively even (CSM would very possibly not be able to compete in the Golden Gate Conference with a team missing NPL and SPAL players.

CCS Grid Playoffs

Lancers Defeat El Camino

By JERRY LITTRELL
Post Correspondent

Neither rain, sleet, dead of night nor the El Camino Colts could apparently stay the St. Francis Lancers from their appointed rounds — a route that may now take them to the Central Coast Section football championship of 1973.

Under pitch-black skies heavy with a persistent rain and on a water-puddled field soaked by a day's deluge, the Camino Colts made a game try Friday in Mountain View but came away on the short end of a 20-0 score at the hands of the Lancers in the CCS Region I finals.

St. Francis now faces Cubberley this Friday evening at San Jose City College in the semi-final round. The section championship game will take place December 14 at San Jose State. In other playoff action, Cubberley beat Monta Vista 7-0 and Monterey topped Gonzales 9-0.

As is almost always the case the rain became the great equalizer in a match-up which on paper figured to be heavily one-sided in favor of the Lancers, champs of the tough West Catholic Athletic League. Neither team was able to mount much of an offense and only on occasion could the drenched fans catch a glimpse of the powertul St. Francis running attack.

Star quarterback Tom DeRego was a master chef on the field delicately mixing his running calls and adding just two brief dashes of the spicy passing game.

The game itself was not exactly inspiring — again because of the weather. Both squads managed to total 11 fumbles and the most imaginative running play was a mixup on the final PAT try with about one minute left in the game.

After the teams introduced themselves to each other with successive fumbles on the opening series there was a lot of one-two-three-punt calls. Not until there was 50 seconds left in the half did the Lancers score.

DeRego, as expected, hit 6-6 Doug Cosbie on an eight-yard slant pattern for the first half's scoring after an 11-play, 54 yard drive that started with a 10-yard pass from DeRego to Dave DeMartini (the only two passes DeRego attempted all night.)

Camino's biggest threat came in the final three minutes of the game when, still trailing only 6-0, the Colts recovered DeRego's fumble on their own 38. They moved only to the 46 but punted the ball down to the 27 and apparently had momentum swinging their way when Dan McCrone, the WCAL's leading rusher (who had been bottled up until then with just 41 yards), busted through the right side of his line for a 70-yard TD run that ended all Camino's hopes.

St. Francis' Al Galedridge then recovered another EC fumble on the 18 and four plays later, with only 90 seconds remaining, McCrone bolted over from the three.

Camino's defense played exceptionally well throughout as standouts Mike Burns and Art Eklund contained DeRego and McCrone except for the one series and the one big play.

Unfortunately for the defense, the Colt offense was unable to get anything untracked. They didn't get a first down until the third period, didn't throw a pass until nearly the fourth period and completed only one of eight after that.

Unfair?

Rowen not only brought the Gators up from a 3-8 record (and only one conference win) in '72 to a 7-2-1 this year, but he pulled them up from a near disastrous half-decade which included only an 11-30-1 mark since 1969 from a team which was until 1968 a perennial conference winner or contender.

What happened in 1968, of course, was the now infamous student strike and consequent campus riots. The combination of trying to recruit prospects into a school that is seemingly splitting at the seams and almost literally dangerous to attend, and a cut-back in student body financial support very nearly ended the football program. But Rowen toughed it out.

There were many who thought he was foolish. Technically one of the game's finest coaches, Rowen could almost certainly have landed a job with a high power university. Some feel that he would be more in his element as an assistant pro coach, and there is no doubt he could succeed in that area.

But Vic Rowen doesn't cry and he doesn't quit. As corny as it may sound, he perseveres, he endures, and by God, maybe he actually instills into his players, some character, not by locker room pep talks or fatherly chats, but by the most lasting method — example.

ANOTHER Gator who had a pretty fair year was running back Dave Fernandez, who broke a bevy of S.F. State running records, was named All Conference, was one of three FWC Players of the Year, and has a shot at Little All-American rating.

Among Fernandez's records were:

First Gator to run for at least 1,000 yards in a season (1,066); most yards gained in a season (1,066, breaking Charley Fuller's 892, set in 1960); most yards gained, career (1,899, breaking Tom Manney's 1,756); most all-purpose yards, career, (3,507, running, receiving and returning kicks); most times rushing, season (214); most career carries (386); most carries in a game (30); and Fernandez and junior Bruce Rhodes were the best all-time running duo, together gaining 1,596, breaking the record of Fuller and Willie Simpson, 1,577, set in 1970.

Other All-FWC players from State were tight end Jens Holmgren, quarterback Kirk Waller, wide receiver Dan Ferrigno, offensive interior lineman Dave Carson, and defensive lineman Alex Vasquez.

Holmgren, only a sophomore and at 6-3, 215 is still growing.

Waller broke many of Bob Toldeo's career passing records, although Toledo, who played one less year of varsity than did Waller, still holds eight national passing and total offense records.

FERRIGNO, who will also be returning, was among the leading conference receivers and averaged well over 20 yards per reception despite often being TRIPLE teamed.

Rhodes, incidentally, though he didn't make all-star honors, could be challenging some records next year himself. He not only runs exceedingly well, but was second behind Ferrigno in receptions and proved at times, an outstanding punter.

Things, in short, are looking up for S.F. State. Nobody would be so bold as to predict a burgeoning dynasty, but there are Rhodes and Holmgren and Ferrigno and . . .

And, oh yes, Vic Rowen.

Ned Sparks Padres

One of the county's hottest intra-city rivalries put a fitting capper on prep basketball's first weekend of activity Saturday night.

Serra came on strong in the second half to topple Hillsdlae, 49-43, in a battle of long-time San Mateo city rivals (and two of the best teams around) before a roaring packed house at the Padre gym.

In other non-league games, Half Moon Bay swamped Pescadero, 64-25, in a duel on the coast, and Menlo dumped Serramonte, 65-48.

Hillsdale, just off a gruelling win over tough Los Altos, motored to a 26-20 halftime lead behind the scoring of two-time All-County guard Rod Williams.

But after the Knights went up by eight at the start of the the third quarter, Serra took control and never relaxed. Junior Joe Ned, a 6-3 center, sparked the comeback with some deadly short range jump-shooting.

The Padres took a one-point lead into the last quarter and solidified command at 42-36 with 2:01 left on a bucket by Ron Jackson on an assist from Jim Doherty, who had seven for the game.

"We just went cold," said Hillsdale coach Bill Wilkin. "Los Altos took a lot out of us and it showed." Serra had also played the previous night, but had won in a breeze.

Doherty, Jackson and 6-6 All-County forward Buzz Harnett paced an aggressive Padre defensive effort. Harnett held 6-5 Mike Arburn, the Knights' top-scoring threat next to Williams, to four points and grabbed a game-high 15 rebounds.

Williams, who had hit for 30 against LA, had 28 points to take game honors. Ned had 17 for Serra, now 2-0 under new coach Pete Newell.

Three juniors, Scott Amour, Rich Loveman (romantic, ain't they?) and Joe Jessie combined for 39 points and 25 rebounds to head Half Moon Bay. Cougar coach Chuck Short has high hopes for having his best team ever and the Cougars looked the part, particularly with a 59-22 rebound advantage.

'Robbery' Aids D.C. Youth

TURNS OVER CHECK — Charles Turner, president of First National Bank fo Daly City turns over check for $800 to police chief Roland Petrocchi. Check was proceeds from movie scenes shot in Turner's bank on Mission Street in Daly City recently.

Proceeds from a recent "bank robbery" in Daly City will be used to aid the community's youth through the Police Athletic League.

The "robbery" was staged at the First National Bank of Daly City under the watchful eye of bank president Charles Turner and a score of police — professional and amateur.

Actors from Hong Kong, in Daly City to film a cops-and-robbers film titled "Yellow Tiger," used the bank as the location for one of its scenes.

Last Saturday, the production company owned by the Golden Harvest Company of Hong Kong entered the bank on Mission Street armed with lights, miles of electrical wiring and automatic cameras.

Except for the $800 paid by the movie company to Turner for use of the facility, no real cash was involved in the robbery.

And the sight of Adolph J. Ricci, a local reserve officer with the department, being gunned down in what appeared to be cold blood, didn't raise an eyebrow among onlookers — it was all part of the latest movie dealing with the growing popularity of kung fu.

Kung fu, or Gung fu as some call it, is an Oriental martial art using only one's hands instead of weapons.

Roughly, the film deals with an Oriental and a black policeman assigned as a team to the Daly City Police Department.

The Oriental is an expert in kung fu and, naturally, detests weapons. Unfortunately, he kills a man with his hands and goes to jail. While in jail his black partner is killed by a gang and the ex-cop, who is reinstated to the force, goes after the killers.

How it ends is a secret.

One thing is certain. That is, the youth of Daly City, through the PAL program, have gained some much-needed money thanks to the "robbery."

VETERAN RESERVE police officer Adolph Ricci was "shot" during holdup scene filmed at First National Bank of Daly City by Hong Kong film company. Cameras crowd around to get closeup of "wounded" bank guard.

Skyline College Will Stage 'Camino Real'

One of Tennessee Williams' famous plays, "Camino Real" opens in the Skyline College main theater for a three evening run from Dec. 6 through Dec. 8.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. with tickets now on sale in the college box office from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily. Prices are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students and children.

A veteran group of Skyline College drama students will highlight this fall term production which is under the direction of Ronald Weidman.

They include James Wells who plays the main character, Kilroy, an ex-champion prize fighter. Wells has worked in many Skyline productions including a memorable performance as the character, Dauntless, in "Once Upon a Mattress."

Jeff Wilbur, a two year veteran of the theater department plays Jacques Casanova. He previously has been involved in many facets of theater production ranging from stage management of the musical "Once Upon a Mattress" to playing the principal role in last year's "An Enemy of the People."

The story revolves around a mythical place, Camino Real, where Kilroy finds many famous people living in this city during a festival. Each character is trying to find a means of escape.

This play provides opportunities for the drama students to work in the different facets of drama. The set designers are working under the direction of Al Melodia. Diana Stone is supervising and assisting in the designing of the costumes.

Computer Matching for Rides

By JOHN HORGAN

There is a new computer matching service being tried in San Mateo County this week.

But it has nothing to do with dating.

Rather, it involves commuting, that ulcer-inducing, daily grind which turns even the meekest of men into frustrated ogres.

Two San Francisco men, Joseph Alaimo and Martin Cohen, are using this county as a test area to determine whether or not there is interest in organizing car pools in a concerted manner on a Bay Area-wide basis.

In an ad which ran in Nov. 28 Times, the new group, which calls itself The Bay Area Commuters' Concern, stated that the plan is being tried "to help you find alternatives within your neighborhood and community to the costly and imminently frustrating task of daily commuting."

For $5, Alaimo and Cohen will send you the names of five of your neighbors who are interested in forming car pools.

"We are looking for people who would like to commute with other people," Alaimo, an assistant advertising director for a San Francisco department store, said this week.

"We are a human service. We will do the work of the computer unless this thing grows too big."

Alaimo explained that a number of factors have moved him and Cohen to attempt this plan.

"I think the gasoline shortage is just a sampling of what's ahead for us," Alaimo said. "What we are trying to do is to offer an alternative right now."

He added that such a system is being tried in other cities in the U.S. too. Boston is one of them, he said.

"The idea is to get more cars off the road. Boston has taken the approach that the car pool is the 'in' thing to do. They say you can meet the nicest people in a car pool."

Alaimo himself doesn't own a car any more. He got rid of it when he moved here from the East. "The longer I've been without one," he said, "the more I realize I don't need one."

Cohen commutes to his job every day in Hayward. He is a foreman-technician with a photo service there.

They chose San Mateo County for their test area because, Alaimo stated, this county has a large number of commuters.

If the response to their Nov. 28 ad is significant, Alaimo said, the two men plan to expand the operation into Santa Clara County, Marin County and the East Bay.

"We strongly believe in what we are doing," Alaimo offered.

"The more I think about it the more I think this will be a constructive service. We think it can work for just about anyone: businessmen, students, shoppers. There are all kinds of possibilities."

Anyone interested in more information about The Bay Area Commuters' Concern can get it by writing to the organization at 2294 15th St. in San Francisco.

For those who mail in $5 for five names, Alaimo suggested that they allow him and Cohen about two weeks to mail back the list.

Wednesday's ad contained space for your name, address and rider and driver preferences to.

DC Friends Set 'Capsule Review'

"Capsule Reviews of Current Adult and Children's Books" will be presented by William E. Bartels for members and guests of The Friends of the Daly City Library, Dec. 6, at 10 a.m., in the Coral Room of the Westlake Library, 275 Southgate Ave.

Bartels, well-known for his reviews for the local Friends, is noted for his ability to capture the flavor of the books selected for these mini-reviews.

Bartels, a resident of San Mateo County, formerly represented Doubleday Publications.

The coffee social preceding the program, hosted by Hospitality Chairman Elvera Sunnell, assisted by Mmes. Lloyd Wilson and Klaus Tschorsnig, will have a holiday motif.

A no-host luncheon honoring Mr. Bartels will follow the review and will be held at Lyons Restaurant, Daly City. Mrs. H. C. Kincaid, book review chairman, will accept reservations at the review.

The public is invited to attend the program free of charge.

Red Cross First Aid Class Set

Golden Gate Chapter of the Red Cross will offer a Multi-Media Standard First Aid Class Dec. 8, at the Westlake Park Clubhouse, 149 Lake Merced Blvd. from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

The multi-media course is based on the contents of the regular 10-hour Standard First Aid course, but can be completed in one 8-hour working day.

Pre-registration is advised by calling either the Daly City Recreation, Parks and Maintenance Department at 992-5356 or Golden Gate Chapter - Red Cross at 776-1500, Ext. 331.

Students are asked to bring a lunch, and to dress comfortably in long slacks. Instruction is free, but there is a $5 charge for workbook and materials.

Boy, 15, Arrested

A 15-year-old San Bruno boy faces the possibility of becoming a ward of the court after another venture has caused his arrest on a charge of "in danger of living an idle and dissolute life."

The youngster, who told sheriff's deputies he resides with his mother's friend, was nabbed at San Francisco International Airport Monday for selling Irish Sweepstakes tickets.

He also told deputies that for nine months he was a security guard at the airport before he was fired for soliciting rides for the "pirate" cabs. The boy stands 6 feet and weighs 140.

He told deputies he has been at school only six months during the past two years, Capt. Herbert E. Elvander related. The youth was taken to Hillcrest Juvenile Hall in Belmont.

S.S.F. Man Freed Briefly

Salvatore Guardado was released and instantly rearrested in South San Francisco Court Monday afternoon.

Guardado, 22, of 2404 Bantry Lane, South San Francisco, is in custody for assault with intent to commit murder, arson and assault with intent to commit rape, as the result of Nov. 9 incident involving a San Bruno woman.

Municipal Court Judge Walter Capaccioli said he had "no choice but to dismiss the case" after he learned that the victim and star witness, 24-year-old Heydy Murillo had apparently not been subpoenaed for the hearing.

San Bruno Police Lt. Jim Rego immediately rearrested Guardado, who was kept in custody of the Sheriff's Department, and Judge Capaccioli reset bail at $5,000.

Guardado will be rebooked on all the same charges, according to the District Attorney's office, and arraigned again Tuesday morning.

A new court date for preliminary hearing is expected within 17 days, according to attorneys.

According to a police report of the incident for which Guardado was initially arrested, the victim apparently had been choked to unconsciousness and then her bedding was set afire.

Warrant Issued

SSF Woman Sought For Theft

South San Francisco Municipal Court Judge F. Jose de Larios has issued a warrant for the arrest of Rose Hernandez, 41, charging 10 counts of grand theft and 10 counts of issuing a check with intent to defraud.

She is being sought by the South San Francisco police, who believe she has left the immediate area.

Police Detective Milt Singleton said the woman, a bookkeeper for the Paragon Wax Company, 101 Associated Road, allegedly embezzled $46,203.74 in company funds during the month of September.

According to Singleton, the alleged embezzlement was accomplished by her issuing company checks to herself, leaving the name of the "payee" blank when she approached her boss for a signature, and then apparently filling in her name later.

In other instances, according to Singleton, there would be checks made to fictitious persons. He said it appears most of the checks were cashed at local banks.

Singleton said the police were informed of the alleged embezzlement on Oct. 4 when Miss Hernandez did not show up for work. A routine trip to the bank by another employe turned up the fact numerous company checks had been made out to, and were cashed by, the bookkeeper.

According to Singleton, the police also are seeking the whereabouts of the company's warehouse foreman, Gregory Giedzinski, 28, of Pacifica.

The detective said there is no official charge against Giedzinski, who reportedly left the area at the end of September. But Singleton said there's a possibility he and Miss Hernandez may be traveling together in his pickup camper.

Bail for Miss Hernandez was set at $50,000. Singleton asked that anyone knowing of her whereabouts to contact him at the South San Francisco Police Department.

D.C. School to Be Closed

Jefferson Elementary School will close its doors to children, and Thornton School site will go on the seller's block at the end of this school year, the Jefferson Elementary School District board of trustees decided last night.

Supt. Keith Breon had asked for the closure of Little Jeff in the eastern sector of Daly City as yet another of his austerity moves designed to save tax monies.

His plans include selling off the Thornton School site — hopefully to the Jefferson Union High School District which has been using a part of the site.

About 200 students will be affected by the move, it was explained.

Of this amount, about half are "walk in" students and the others bused.

Maintenance shops and other school support facilities will be transferred to the Jeff site.

The proposal could save the money-plagued district between $50,000-$75,000 a year, Breon said.

Jefferson Elementary School is the oldest in the 22 school district.

It was built shortly after the devastating San Francisco earthquake and while still in "safe" condition, school officials agree it will soon need an expensive facelifting to meet today's teaching demands.

Breon also feels the sale of the Thornton site could produce anywhere from $100,000 to $200,000. This money would be put into the general building fund for use in updating facilities throughout the district, he said.

Before bringing the proposal before the Board Wednesday, Breon said he had held a series of neighborhood talks on the issue.

Most of the concern voiced, according to Breon, was not the closing of the school, but rather where the children now attending the school would go next year.

The over-all picture of who goes where next year is still up in the air, Breon pointed out.

Shots Jail Pacifican

A Pacifica man was arrested in Redwood City early today after he allegedly fired two shots into the front door of an apartment following a verbal altercation with the occupant.

Booked at County Jail on charges of firing a gun at an inhabited dwelling, possession of a loaded firearm and possession of lost or stolen credit cards was John Forrest Pino, 22, a construction worker, of 1091 Manzanita Drive.

Policeman Manual Becerra reported that Pino was driven to Redwood City about 3:30 a.m. by a 17-year-old girlfriend and went to the apartment of Richard L. Lannoo, 505 Cedar St.

After knocking on the door and exchanging words with Lannoo, who refused to open the door, Pino allegedly drew a .44-caliber revolver from a holster and fired two shots. Neighbors called police, and Pino was taken into custody at the apartment by officers. The girl was not held.

SSF Aide Appointed

William Costanzo has been appointed South San Francisco's first zoning administrator.

City Manager Ed Alario announced that Costanzo is expected to begin work the first part of January.

In his new position, Costanzo will perform duties that up to now have been handled by the building inspector and by the city planner.

It will be Costanzo's task to enforce conditions of use permits such as landscaping and parking, and to enforce the city zoning code.

Fruit Trees Are Highly Prized Christmas Gifts

By IVA NEWMAN

The high price of fruit, (we just paid 29 cents each for fruits of the Fuyu persimmon), makes it important for each family to grow some fruit even if they have to grow the trees in containers. Also, it is the wise homeowner who sticks with the dwarf types of trees as the standard types get expensive to maintain and they bear much more fruit than the average family can consume.

Among the deciduous fruit trees that are grown for their beauty as well as their fruit is the oriental persimmon. The variety Hachiya is the most popular form. It is favored for the shape and color of the fruit and for the tree form. The fruits do not lose their astringency until they are soft ripe. The tree is generally free of insects and diseases and it needs little or no pruning. Fruits of the Fuyu variety are smaller and flattened like a tomato and you can eat them when they are crisp like an apple. However, the tree is far from being as beautiful as the Hachiya. To prevent fruit drop, soak the root area every three weeks during the growing season and fertilize with a slow release fertilizer in November.

Apples are among the most popular of home fruit trees. We strongly advise that all apple trees be purchased at a nursery in the area where the trees are to be grown. We also advise that trees budded to two or three varieties be chosen for the small family. Here again, the dwarf types are best as the fruit can be harvested while standing on the ground. This is true for pruning, also. Spraying of dwarf trees is easily done with home equipment. Standard trees need a high pressure rig. Be sure to check on pollination requirements. A double or triple grafted tree will usually have one that will serve as a pollinator.

Peach trees take a bit more care than either of the above as they are subject to curley leaf. The trees should be purchased at a local nursery as peaches are very sensitive as to climate and local nurseries usually stay with varieties that do well in the area served by the nursery. Here, again, get a dwarf tree budded to two or three varieties so the harvest period will be stretched over a long time.

Comice Good

The Bartlett and the late ripening Comice pears do very well in Peninsula gardens. Our friend, Mrs. Mattie White, North Humboldt Street, Burlingame has a Comice pear tree that bears huge fruits that weigh over a pound each. The Comice ripens in the fall while the Bartlett ripens in the summer.

Plums are grown easily and produce very well in Peninsula gardens. Again, we urge dwarf trees and those budded to two or more varieties as one of the great pleasures of home grown fruit is being able to eat it fresh from the tree. Keep in mind that "any plum that can be dried whole without removing the pit and without fermenting is a prune."

Citrue trees, especially dwarf citrus, make beautiful evergreen, ornamental trees. We grow them in containers and in the garden. We keep two plants on our front porch and at Christmas time they are hung with reddish orange fruits that carry out the Christmas theme. True dwarf citrus trees are vigorous, produce normal-sized fruits and start bearing while quite young. It is not unusual to find fruits on many of the citrus in egg cans in the nurseries. There are 30 varieties of dwarf citrus available to homeowners and apartment dwellers on the Peninsula.

Robertson Navel Tops

Our favorite, and that of many others, if sales are any criterion, is the Robertson navel orange. This is a patented sport of the Washington navel. The true dwarf citrus plants are clonal Robertson navel. This means that all the propagated plants are identical. This sport starts to fruit sooner than its Washington navel parent and it bears an amazing amount of large-sized fruit. The fruit is sweet and juicy. We find the fruit ripens in December and stays in good condition on the tree until spring. It frequently flowers at the same time the fruit ripens, scenting the holiday air with fragrance. The Washington navel is about the same except it is a little less sweet.

The Seedless Valencia is a patented sport of the standard valencia. The time of bloom, fruit size, and quality are much the same as its parent. While the valencia orange blooms and has fruit throughout most of the year it takes the fruits 15 months to ripen and is listed as summer ripening. Many hotels list the navel orange as a dessert orange and serve it sliced. The valencia is essentially a juice orange.

The Lisbon and Eureka lemon are the popular varieties in this group. The fruit is so much alike that they are often mixed on the fruit stands and sold just as lemons. Both are vigorous with dense foliage with both green and ripe fruits the year around. The main difference that we have noted is that the leaves on the Lisbon are a darker green than those on the Eureka.

We also grow the Owari Satsuma mandarin orange. This citrus has flat, orange-colored, easily peeled, loose skinned fruit that is generally without seeds. While this fruit colors up nicely in December we find it is sweeter and better tasting if we wait until January or February to harvest it.

All young citrus should be protected from the cold weather that may strike again this winter. Build a wooden frame around the plants and cover it with plastic or canvas.

Backpacking Club Takes A Hike

Terra Nova's newly organized back-packing club went on its first field trip Nov. 3, journeying to Sam McDonald Park.

Purpose of the trip was primarily to acquaint inexperienced hikers with the more experience members in hopes of teaching them the skills of camping and hiking.

After the trip the 20 participants were asked to write a brief evaluation of the trip which allowed the advisor, Mrs. Carolyn DeYoung, to determine in which areas the trip proved educationally valuable, and in which areas there was failure.

It is the hope of the advisor and leaders of the backpacking club that members will not only learn the skills of wilderness travel, but also how to preserve the areas so that all can enjoy nature in its undisturbed state.

SECURITY & PRIVACY 'FOR RENT'

When you move to Park View Terrace Apartments you move to a whole new "world" of security and privacy. Your lobby entrance floor is continuously monitored by closed circuit TV. Before admitting any "visitors" to the building lobby you can "see" them on your own television set in the safety of your living room and determine whether you want to speak to them at all (via intercom)!! Your apartment door has an identification peep-hole and special security lock with deadbolt.

Park View Terrace is located in the San Mateo Hills and there are still some magnificent Bay Views available. Deluxe one and two bedrooms ALL WITH BALCONIES, excellent soundproofing, secured interior storage rooms, 2 lighted tennis courts, sauna, pool, gym and underground parking.

When you live at Park View Terrace you are 20 minutes from the City or the Ocean and just 30 minutes from San Jose. You're in the middle of EVERYWHERE, and protected by a security package that provides complete safety while you're at home and "peace of mind" when you're away.

A NEW WORLD OF SAFETY!

When you move to Granada you can REALLY relax in a whole new "world" of safety and privacy. Fully secured entrance to the interior courtyard is continuously monitored by closed circuit TV. Before admitting your "visitors", you talk to them on intercom and "see" them on your own television set in the safety of your living room. Your front door has an identification peephole and security lock with deadbolt. Steel garage gates are electronically activated only by your special key or car transmitter. Our security "package" offers complete safety while you're home and "peace of mind" when you're away.

All Granada condominiums include fireplace, wet bar, pantry, G.E. double self-cleaning oven, trash compactor, laundry/utility room and specially engineered soundproofing.

The finest and "safest" in adult living is yours in Granada's one-bedroom and two-bedroom, 2 full bath units. Choose from 4 superbly designed color coordinated floor plans. One bedroom from $38,450. Two bedrooms from $53,950.

Cub, Boy Scout News

By ROZ MORINO

OVERACHIEVER seals placed on their Unit Achievement Award Streamers were recently won by several Northern San Mateo County Scout units, as part of the "First in Space" membership roundup program.

Pack No. 259, Albert Leong; No. 271, Al Huelga; No. 282, Robert E. Bergero; No. 292, Robert Lambertson and No. 29, Stephen Busk, exceeded their boy and adult goals, in Northern District.

PORTOLA'S Overachiever units included No. 9, Michael Wallace; No. 137, Giles F. Hulsmann, Jr.; No. 178, Stephen Cohen; No. 213, Louis W. Riegel; No. 74, Joe Giggs and No. 263, Jack Fowlkes.

"First in Space" scrolls will be sent to all units, so boys and adults may sign their names, to be microdotted and launched into space aboard the "Scout" in 1974.

EAGLE SCOUTS, recently qualifying in Northern San Mateo County include Paul A. Dale of Troop No. 182, and Johnny Law of Troop No. 129, both in Daly City; and Robert Pipkins, Troop No. 258, and Steven Roark, Troop No. 299 of Pacifica.

David Romine, Troop No. 291; Scott Cantley, Troop No. 276 and Matthew Werner, Troop No. 179 are all from South San Francisco.

CAMPING CHAIRMAN for Northern District, newly-appointed, is Duane Cimino, replacing Jack Hayhurst, who accepted a volunteer position on the District Commissioner's staff.

Duane formerly served as Scoutmaster of Daly City's Troop No. 148.

BILL LAWRENCE, former Mayor and City Councilman in Brisbane, replaced Fred Milam as membership chairman for the Scout's Northern District; Bill was formerly assistant district commissioner.

Lee Varney, formerly of Daly City's Troop No. 148 when it was known as No. 248, will be assisting Mr. Lawrence.

KOHLENBERG FORD
IS NOW NORTHERN CALIFORNIA'S LARGEST VOLUME FORD DEALER

IN APPRECIATION — We are presenting to you the finest new car and truck buys in our history! Most dealers will wait until Spring, Summer, or even the end of the year to advertise their cars and trucks as low as we are advertising ours NOW at the BEGINNING of OUR 1974 MODEL YEAR! You may not see prices this low again until the END OF 1974. You may NEVER see them this low again if we have another small car shortage as we did in August and September of this year, or if we receive any future price increases on the 1974's.
OUR GOAL therefore is to maintain our Sales Leadership as the No. 1 Ford Dealer in Northern California by offering what we believe, are positively the lowest prices (Car for Car — Truck for Truck — $1 for $1) on brand new 1974's to be found anywhere . . . and by giving you the type of Quality After Sales Service that will insure your being a satisfied consumer, happy customer, and a loyal owner, who will buy again and who will refer others in confidence to buy as well. THIS THEN IS OUR WAY OF INSURING SUCCESS — by offering you a brand new 1974 that you can ENJOY NOW at prices you'd expect to pay much later during the year. As a Matter of Fact (And check us out if you like) we are offering you . . .
